sauce in America," he told the children with a smile. Recorded Sonar Signals

Once under way in the small boat, Dr. Edgerton hunched over the Oceanographic Recorder, an in-strument the size of a large suitcase that was set on the seat in front of him. It recorded the reflected sonar signals on a slowly unrolling sheet of flimsy paper. The traces showed the depth immediately beneath the boat, as determined by a precise measurement of the time F takes a sound signal to reach the bottom and be reflected hack to the sonar receiver. At the orange huoy mark-ing the site for the expedi-

tion's photographic search, the recorder showed a depth of slightly more than 60 feet. The array of six still, timelapse and television cameras is to be lowered to 40 feet. The site is about 300 feet out in Urquhart Bay, where it is assumed the creatures feed on salmon waiting to swim

Into tributaries to spawn. Dr. Christopher McGowan, a zoologist from the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto, looked over Dr. Edgertoo's shoulder at the sonar trac-ings. He had a keen interest because he plans to conduct a sonar research for signs of skeletal remains of the crea-

Dr. Edgerton decided that the are to be conducted, using larger boats where motor noise should not be a prob-Dr. Lageron decided that the noise from the outboard mo-tor was the prohlem. So Jeffrey Thomason, a 22-year-old zoology graduate of Cambridge University, cut off the motor and moved forlem. The chief sonar expert of the expedition, Martin Klein of Salem, N. H., is expected to arrive next week. While we were out in the rowboat, Dr. Robert H. Rines, ward to pick up the oars. He was the youngest and stron-gest and had had some ex-perience in competitive row-rowboat, Dr. Robert H. Rines, the expedition leader, and Charles W. Wyckoff de-ployed cables from the pier out to the huoy. The cables will supply electric power for the underwater cameras and lights and provide a link be-tween the underwater televiperfence in competitive row-ing while at Cambridge. Dr. Edgerton encouraged him with a deep-throated rendi-tion of "song of the Volga Boatmen." My task was less teohnical tion camera and a monitoring station oo the shore. In this way, the expedition hopes to conduct the first 24than Dr. Edgertoo's and less strenuous than Jeff Thomhour reconnaissance of life son's. It was more in the manner of the old-time leads-man, who stood on the deck deep in Urquhart Bay.

Work in the Gloaming By then it was time for a dinner hreak. But at this time of year in the latitudes of the Highlands, it does not cet really dark until just beof a ship and cast a lead-weighted hemp line over-board to sound the depth, by counting the measured knots in the paid-out line, once the meighted had bit bottom ha get really dark until just be-fore midnight and the light returns shortly after 3 A.M. weight had hit bottom, he could make a rough estimate of depth and detect danger-ous shoals. So, in the gloaming, the expedition resumed work at 9 P.M. The leadsman has given

The system, developed by Dr. Edgerton, was hooked to the electric cable and low-ered into the bay for an over-night test run. It was seccured by lines to a moored rubber boat. When full opera-tions begin, this and the oth-er cameras will be suspended from a larger boat.

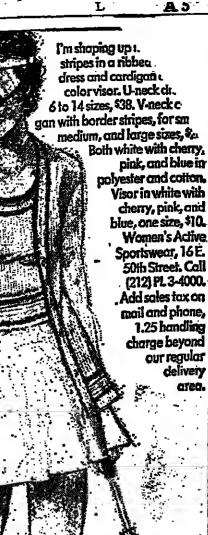

More Ambitious Search

The camera is the same ooe that took pictures in 1972 and 1975 that appeared to show a living, moving crea-ture in much the same part of Loch Ness. Those pictures, when refined and analyzed, set in motion this summer's more ambitious search.

When Mr. Wyckoff re-turned this morning, he found that the camera had apparently performed flaw-lessly. It shot 2,000 colored exposures, one every 1S sec-oods in unison with the in-tense flashes of the strobe light: The film from the test will not be developed for another few days, when a processing laboratory is established at Lochside. Only then will it be known if a creature showed up for the test.

Dr. Rines, the leader of the expeditioo, reported today that all preparations were proceeding on schedule, with search operatioos expected to begin early next week, or perhaps soooer.

Poet Slain by Francoists Stirs New Dispute in

By HENRY KAMM GRANADA, Spain, June 1

- The ghost of Federico Gracia Lorca, the poet slain by Franco forces in 1936 shortly after the outhreak of he Civil War and since then the symbol of all the voices stilled in Spain, is hauoting his native region, Andalusia, now that some Spaniards find their voice once more Four decades after his death before e firing squad in e ravine and his burial in a grave oever known, Federico, as he is called by admirers, has become the issue in a dispute between the op-position and the representatives of the power that sur-vived Fraccisco Franco's death last November. The controversy illumi-nates the tension throughout the intellectual centers of Spain in this period of transition as voices long muted chailenge the raign of silence and the men in power seek a response that will blunt the challenge challenge.

A. Professor's Proposal

The issue was opened last January by Prof. José Cazoria, a political sociologist at the University of Granada, in a letter th a local newspaper. He urged that García alive

Dr. Cazoria received letters and telephone calls of support and of meoace, including one call that threatened him with García Lorca's fate. A committee was formed and a call issued for a public hom-age to the poet on June 5; the day that would have been his 78th birthday! in his na-tive village of Fuente Va-queros, about 15 miles from

 In a forthright but delicate-ly worded appeal for support, the organizers, who, signed their names despite the risk that their committee might be declared illegal, stated: "It is our inteotion to break-forever a sileoce enforceduntil today snà to proclaim, with the force of solidarity, a manifesto of reconciliation, which will permit us to construct the Spain of everybody and for all Spaniards,"

6,500 Signatures

Dr. Cazorla said that 6,500 signatures had been-received on the document, cupies of which are circulating widely. On April 25 the committee made public its plan for Saturday's homage. What followed is what Professor Gazoria called "a pic-aresque situation," events that cover the serious issues in a cloak of rustic comedy. For 40 years the authorities had nearly obscured the fact that Fuente Vaqueros was the home of García Lorca-totally "ignoring it for about the first 30, then gradually allowing memory to revive antil last war on bichway until last year, on highway signs balf devoted to Coca-Cola, the village edvertised itself as the "cradle of García Lorca." Now, on May 16, they announced a first officeremony was last Thursday, nine days before the planned unofficial homage. From Madrid, the poet's sister, sisterin-law and nephews issued a strong rejection of the of-ficial ceremony

"We have always opposed, and will oppose in the future," the family declared, "the desire of official agen-cies and persons holding of-fices neither elected nor representative to 'credit to their account' or 'take part' in acts of homage to our brother and uncle after 40 years of cover-ing up a political murder (among many)."

Garcia Lorca, who be-longed to no political party, was killed in the early waves of summary executions by the Falange of real or imag-ined opposents of Franco's military uprising. The victims ranged from anarchists and Communists through Socialists to those of geoerally lib-eral sentimeot, like the poet. A soo of a small land-holder, Garcia Lorca drew his inspiratioo and moch of the subject matter of his poems end dramas from Andalusian peasant life. His sympathies were deeply stirred hy the were decay's strict hy the plight of the poor and those exploited by a feudalistic land-tenure system and by those relegated to the margin of society, like southern Spain's many gypsies.

Formed Touring Theater? He gave substance to his social views, and his idea of the artist's role in society, by forming a theater group, La Barraca, with which be toured through Spain io a truck, bringing the classics of drama to people who would never have the occa-sion to go to a traditional, theater. The officiel ceremony in.

Fuente Vaqueros took place, on a day apparently chosen; at random. "The wroog day," ? said Prof, Juan Antonio Rivas Lopez, who teaches English at-the University of Granada and is a member of the unofficial organizing committee.

A hastily prepared ceramic plaque now decorates the simple two-story building in the sleepy farming center. It says in faulty Spacish, omit-ting such sensitive issues as the telltale date of death:

Even on the holiday, faw people attended, according to local sources. They said that nocal sources. They said that msny carloads of policemen and officials from throughout the region outnumbered the people of the village who at-tended.

tended. The clerk took from a file a petition, which he said was spontaneous. In which a group of villagers asked the Mayor to bold a ceremony in opposition to the unofficial omage.

"We consider it not right that while other people take initiatives, bls countrymen remaio iodifferent or at least passive," the petitioo said. passive, the petition said. A politically uncommitted shopkeeper, asked whether he had been among the sign-ers, said scoffingly that only "the crowd around town hall" had signed.

Praise for the Poet

Both town officials expressed great admiration for the poet. But a schoolgirl in her teens, when asked what she had learned of Garcia Lorca in the Fueote Vsqueros school, replied, "Very little." "Nothing," a companioo added. The higher the provincial officials questioned in Granada, the higher the praise of the poet. They included the civil governor, Medrid's high-est representative in the province, José Manuel Me-néndez-Manjón 'y, Sancho Miñano, and the presideot of the highest provincial admioistrative body, the Deputa-tion, José Luis Pérez Serrabona.

"The poet was praised also by an elderly, burly shop-owner here who admits being an "official" of the Francoist Falange in town in the days of Garcia Lorca's arrest and his killing three days later, but the shopowner denied allegations that he had direct

The death certificate said that the poet "died in the month of August of 1936 as the result of injuries produced by facts of war," "The body was found on the 20th of the same month on the road from Viznar to Alfacar," it said of the forthcoming platform he feared. Mr. Carter mentioned "the promise of instant answers fo all the financial needs of urban ereas" and of state governments. He also mentioned what he called "an instant approach to national health insurance" and "instant federalization of welfare."

This was in line with his previous suggestions that a program of national health insur ance should be phased into ef-fect over a period of years, and that state governments should continue to bear a part of the cost of welfare programs, al-though cities should be relieved of their welfare hurden.

Mr. Carter did not make clear whather he would use his now massive bloc of votes to initiate a floor fight at the convention if the platform contained elements repugnant to him. If. on the other hand, the platform committee writes a document tailcred to his wishes, more liberal Democrats would have to muster a vote of 25 percent of the committee to take a minority report to the floor.

Sweet.Smell of Garbage" was the main headline in The Observer a couple of Thursdays ago, and Rose Heck, the cdibehind Plato's Beauty Salan the other day and said, "We're a staunch Republican town in a Democratic state. Maybe this was n little back-lash." She laughed hriefly. "A little present."

For when New Jersey holds its primary June 8, what Mrs. Heck assesses as "the old faithful" Hasbrouck Heights Republicans will turn out to choose among delegates pledged to President Ford and the unauthorized team ambiguously pledged to a "former California governor." Democrats, with e livelier Presidential contest, might be tempted out in heavier-thannormal local numbers.

But oo one here, at least according to whet they are saying, is really much interested.

Dump Talk

The political topic is the plan by the Hackensack Meadowlends Development Commission to out a vast mechanized garbage dump on a 20-by-30-acre site next to Koute 17. That overcrowded road cerries the rest of the world eround (and) momentarily through one corner of) this friendly community astride the Bergen County ridge thet runs south from Hackensack between the Passaic and Heckensack River valleys.

Councilman, George Jackson, is running as an independent. The Republicans have two male candidates, the Democrats two female, and this should make for a fairly lively clection in November, But as Mrs. Heck put it, "In Hasbrouck Heights, we're basically interested in Hasbrouck Heights. In campaign literature, it's fine to start at the top of the ballot. Here we start at the hottom."

So visitors do not near much about the New Jersey primary. They will have pointed out to them the red brick building at the Baulevard and Franklin Avenue that was the Strand Theater when Arthor Godfrey's mother played the piano there. Harlan Allen, the real estate man, says she taught her son everything he used later as a radio-television entertainer. Or visitors will be shown the comfortable bouse on Lawrence Avenue with the porch over the garage where Fraok Sinatra used to live. His secretary has written Bicentennial planners that be

It was, he remembered, the funeral of Willie Moratii. In the 1950's, when there was a spate of public interest m the fact that some racketeers made their homes in Bargen County, the talkative Mr. Mo-retu talked too much to investigators and, one day, was shot to death.

Borough Clerk Rafford re-called the victory over the Highway Department, About years ago, the contractor who was widening Route 17 closed the highway to traffic, sending streams of wandering vehicles through Hasbrouck Heights. So the mayor ordered the police to put barricades at the two main streets-Ter-race Avenue, which was Polifly Road when Washington's army retreated across New Jersey in 1776, and the Boulevard, which is home to the borough's small stretch of stores. This forced the traffic to meander west to Lodi in search of a through route. "That highway closing lasted about four hours," Mr. Rafford recalled with a satisfied leugh. That is how it is here. "So

There is just one problem. Mr. Parker thinks of himself as a simple man, a liberal Democrat with uncomplicated tastes, a wine salesman who lives modestly and frugally. Rose Thompson, n health administrator, was one of those laid off in the massive New York City Civil Service cuts. She was only recently rehired by the Health and Hospital Corporation.

Although she is concerned about economic issues, Mrs. Thompson voiced more of a preoccupation with this country's status as a world power. Although she is black, Mrs. Thompson is wary of the way developing African oations are approaching the United States. "We pour money into these places and they just kick our teeth," she said. "The Continumist's come and take them over."

"I don't think any of the candidates have addressed the real issues," she said, "they just move and shift their platforms around. I feel confused."

The Mets skipped town last night for the West Coast aftor-losing to the Chicago Cubs, 2-1, and they left a monumental heap of debris behind: 11 defeats in their last 13 games, 18 in their last 24 and a trail of smashed objects in the locker room. The chief fragments in most cases were caused by Dave Kingman, who smashed oothing in five trips to the plate during the game and who then released his yezawho had released its hair dryer, hair-tonic cannister and anything else in sight. He had plenty of reason for self-reproach, too, because he had managed only one single in his last. Is times at hat in his last 18 times at bat, nothing in his last 10, no home runs in 10 games, sev-en strikeouts in four games and 11 teammates left on basa in his last two.

But vectoriav he hit only one But yesterday he hit only one ball past the infield and he left seven runners on base, including the tying and win-ming runs in the last half of the ninth.

But the 6-foot-6-inch "King Kong" of Shea Stadium had lots of company in his mis-ery: the outfielders and mfielders ran together twice, two pinch-bitters failed in the ninth and Mickey Lolich de-livered a crucial wild pitch in the seventh inning after pick-ing two Cubs off first base in the sixth. "It was embarrassiog." mourned Joe Frazier, who has managed the Mets for 51 games and who now faces 11 straight in California. "f doo't know what to do. We were running together, we don't make simple plays, we even gave them four outs that put him into the quarter-finals of the British Amateur championship in his hid to become the first American to win successive titles since Lawson Little 41 years ago. Dick Siderowf, the 1973 champion from Westport, Com., and Jim Gabrielsen, the 1974 runner-up from At-lanta, joined Giles in the quarterfinals, but John Cain of Houston and Alan Pate of Mobile, Ala, were eliminat-

In the fourth round, the 33year-old Giles, a Richmood attorney turned golf mana-ger, crushed Sandy Dunlop of England, 6 and 5, and re-turned to the St. Andrews Old Course of the St. Old Course after lunch to elimanate another Englishman, Mike Kelley, 4 and 3.

In tomorrow's quarterfin-als, Giles meets his toughest test to date in John Davies, a British Walker Cup. star. Davies defeated Cain, 2 and in the fifth and and a constant of the start of th

1, in the fifth round. Siderowf defeated Graham Mchetyre of Canada on the 20th hole in the fourth round, then rallied to oust David of bounds,

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, June 3 (UPI)—Vinny Giles, the defending champion needed just 28 holes of golf today to win two matches that nut him into the autor the source of th fifth round by Peter Deeble of England.

Pate bowed, 3 and 2, to Ian Carslaw of England in the fifth round.

Giles, who finished three under par for 13 holes in the morning, was unhappy with his subsequent golf.

"I hit e lot of ugly shots after the eighth hole in the afternoon," he said, "and my legs were beginning to get very tired. When that happens, my swing goes. Maybe it was because I didn't sleep too well last night. I spent five hours trying to get a trans-Atlantic telephone call through, and when I eveotually gave up trying I slept only in patches." In the quarterfinals, Side-

Facts on Fringes.

Did you know:

That for every $3 New York City spends on base pay, it contributes another $2 in fringe, leave and retirement benefits-roughly twice the amount that other large cities spend on such supplemental emoluments?

•That the city is spending $292 million this year for the most extensive and expensive employee health program in the country-as much as $1,177 annually for a single employee and his family?

That the city continues to pay health benefits after retirement, even when an employee retires young enough to begio a secood career which also provides health benefits?

That the city provides uniform allowances to 93,000 employees, including many who are required to wear no uniforms such as detectives and puppeteers? (New York has 11 puppeteers on its payroll who receive $105 a year for uniforms.)

•That municipal employees are granted four weeks annual leave from the time they go to work, five weeks after seven years; that policemen get two days off for each pint of blood they donate and that firemen are given time off to attend the annual conventions of veterans organizations?

These are just a few of the shocking facts about New York's incomparable-and insupportable-employee benefits as documented in a carefully researched report of the Temporary Commission on City Finances, chaired by former State Supreme Court Justice Owen McGivern.

The report could oot be more timely, coming as it does on the eve of critical oegotiations with municipal labor unioos and during a period when the city is under increasing pressure from Federal and state officials to produce fresh economies to reinforce its endangered financial plan.

The commission's recommendations for fringe reductions estimated to save $97 million next year and for leave benefit reforms that would provide the equivalent of 9,000 additional city workers strongly support the recent contention of the Senate Finance Committee that New York should and can achieve substantially higher savings in this area than the $24 million budgeted for next year.

The report gives city officials the hard factual information they need-and have so sorely lacked in the past-to bargain effectively for these essential cost redoctions. At the same time, it offers the possibility of additional savings sufficient to offset modest costof-living increases for city workers during this austerity year under the restrictive pay formula recently laid down by the Emergency Financial Control Board.

Union leaders are furious over the report because for . the first time it spells out in stark detail for ordinary citizens the ridiculous extremes and costs of the benefits percent. But if the incomes policy were shattered, inflation, still running at an annual rate of about 14 percent, could soar again and further undermine the pound.

British Government leaders keep insisting that the pound is now undervalued-but here the market's judgment may deserve more credence. The British rate of inflatioo, double that of the European average and three times as high as that of the United States, West Germany. and Switzerland, spells cootinuous erosion in the value. of the pound. Though selling of pounds has been relatively light thus far, the market has been extremely. thin oo the boying side. And the danger always exists that, if the Government does not act strongly enough, a far more massive selling of sterling balances held overseas could develop.

and Efforts to Halt It

The Labor Government must do more than bold to. policies that have not yet worked and show little prospect of working adequately for months to come. It must persuade the unions, and the rest of the country, that further cuts in Government spending are essential to stop the inflatioo sooner. Mr. Healey would obviously prefer to wait until the autumn budget review to trim outlays in a careful and orderly way, but the developing crisis may oot permit this. The spending plans of local government authorities, now-running over one billion dollars above agreed estimates, need to be reined back promptly.

A tighter monetary policy appears indicated. Two weeks ago the Bank of England raised the bank rate-the equivalent of the Federal Reserve's discount rate-by a full percentage point to 111/2 percent, the second rise in a mooth. But this had little effect in stemming the flight from the pound. Nor could it be expected to, with the rate of inflatioo higher than the bank rate, and the real cost of borrowing negative. Higher interest rates would attract capital to Britain and help ease the external threat

A tougher anti-ioflation program is not incompatible with economic growth for Britain, With the world ecooomy recovering, the lower prices for British exports resulting from the cheaper pound increase the chance for an export-led British expansion.

Both daring and skill are now required of the Labor Government, its own survival is at stake, and, more than that, the ability of Britain to reverse the economic disaster into which it has been sliding.

A King for Democracy

King Juan Carlos I has used the occasion of his visit to the United States to make the most positive commitment of his six-month reign to the restoration of."authentic liberty" and democratic government in Spain. The 38year-old monarch's dramatic ayowal, in his address delivered to a joint session of Congress, undoubtedly helped undercut whatever opposition had existed in the Senate to approval of a five-year treaty of military and economic cooperation between Spain and the United States.

U.N. Agencies: To Stop the Manipulators

To the Editor: If a judge decided to impose punishment on a defendant after the jury had found the defendant not guilty, imagine, the resulting outcry.

It is just such a protest that mustbe raised concerning the continuing trend in the specialized agencies of the U.N. The formula is simple: Accuse Israel of some violation and then send: in selected experts to, investigate. When the experts turn in a report saying the charges, are unfounded, reject the report and proceed to censure Israel 'anyway.

The practice began in November 1974 when UNESCO yoted to exclude Israel from any of its regional groupings-in effect expelling. Israel from the agency. The pretext was a resolution consuring Israel for sitering the historical character of Jerusalem and endangering religious monuments. A report submitted by a UNESCO-commissioned archeologist stating that. the character of the city was being preserved was suppressed.

The latest incident occurred recently in Geneva at the World Health Organization. A report by the W.H.O.appointed panel citing "slow but steady improvement" in the health conditions in territories occupied by Israel since 1967 was rejected. The report had been 1417 A A.A. 27 A

Hot-Lunch Testimony From P.S. 88

News articles on May 19 and 20 about school food service prompted the following (excerpted) letters from fourth-grade students of Miss Susan Mandel at Public School 88 in Ridgewood, Queens:

that have been given away by public officials during years of secretive labor oegotiations.

That knowledge offers power to the people of New York, power their elective leaders must now exercise to demand downward revision of employee benefits to levels that are more in keeping with the benefits enjoyed by other public and private employees, here and elsewhere--- to levels that a near-bankrupt city might be able to afford.

. More on Pensions

In a report issued earlier this week, the Temporary Commission spelled out additional savings of at least $135 million that New York City could achieve over a period of time hy reforming its cumbersome and costly peosion systems.

The pension report and its conclusions essentially reinforce the recommendations for pension reform already put forward hy the State (Kinzel) Commissioo on Pensions and the Mayor's Management Advisory Board (Shinn). It offers another powerful argument for urgent, comprehensive action by the Governor and the State Legislature. Unfortunately, neither the Governor oor the Legislature appears in the least disposed to act in this election year.

A certain amount of inaction on other matters, however, could be highly beneficial, as the Temporary Commission points out in calling on the Legislature not to extend the increased-take-home-pay benefit (cost to the city: $93 million) or the notorious "heart bill" ($17 million). In addition, the commission urges city officials not to grant the superfluous and possibly illegal union annuity funds (at least $24 oullion) in its current round of collective hargainiog with employee unions.

These could be constructive first steps toward the - broader pension reform which Judge McGivern has observed "is absolutely essential if the city is to be able to balance its budget in the oext few years."

Decline of the Pound...

With Britain caught in a tricky crisis of inflation, unemployment and external deficit, the pound continues to fall. Yesterday it dropped almost to the onceunthinkable level of $1.70; and the Government seems unable to check its continuing slide. But Chancellor Denis Healey says he will not change the Government's basic economic program merely to impress the foreign exchange market.

The Labor Government is facing a tough dilemma. If it were to slash public expenditures, in breach of its understanding with its trade-union supporters, it might drive the unions into revolt and wreck hope of gaining their adherence to a tight iocomes policy that limits wages in the coming year to an increase of only 41/2

His commitment to a democratic Spain was as complete as any liberal could wish. Not only did he pledge to work for a structure in which every Spaniard would have "full scope for political participation without discrimination of any kind" but he promised that the mooarchy would insure "the orderly access to power of distinct political alternatives"-in short, the peaceful transfer of power after free elections.

While heartening to Spain's democratic forces, the King's remarks are certain to provoke bitter criticism from die-hard supporters of the late Generalissimo Franco and possibly-because they were made not at home but in the American capital from elements in his armed services sensitive to charges that under the new treaty they will enter a kind of colonial relationship with their American counterparts. The King had obviously weighed the political risks and decided to accept them.

His Washington comportment in fact represents an extension outside Spain and in public, of the King's recent private behavior at home. He has at last made clear his determination to break with the Franco eta: he has indicated deep dissatisfaction with the slow pace of reform projected by Prime Minister Carlos Arias Navarro, a Franco holdover, and has boldly called in for consultation the leaders of political parties that are still officially illegal under Franco statutes.

There have been frequent indications of the King's democratic sentiments. What was in doubt in the period after General Franco's death last October was his willingness to stand up to the Francoists and to risk alienation of more conservative elements in the armed forces in order to push desperately needed reforms. His Washington stance indicates his readiness to assume in full the role assigned to him by Foreign Minister José María de Areilza as the "motor of change" that will bring democracy to Spain.

It is still far from clear that the King together with the forces of democracy can prevail over the hard core of Francoists, determined to perpetuate the Caudillo's archaic authoritarianism. The arrest yesterday of the liberal journalist, Rafael Calvo Serrer, on his return to Madrid from five years of exile, is a timely reminder of how difficult the struggle will be to achieve the Ideals Juan Carlos proclaimed in Washington.

But the King is surely right in his basic assumptions: Spain's political and economic future hinges on its success in gaining admission to the European Community, and this in turn requires steady evolution toward parliamentary democracy. It is in the best interests of the United States to help Spain in every possible way toward that goal.

ward V. Hanrahan's May 26 letter to the editor is a sad example. He seeks to justify his' role as State's Attorney in Chicago on Dec. 4, 1969, when police assigned to his office smashed into the Illinois Black Panther Party headquarters, killing Fred Hampton and Mark Clark.

To the Editor:

He first notes that a Federal grand hery returned oo indictments and that the opposing ballistics expert could not "tell what shots fired by Black Panthers may have exited through front and back doors and windows ... without leaving shell marks." Of course, no expert could say a bullet was oot fired through an open space where no mark could be left.

Inside, where police shot occupants, the walls looked liked Swiss cheese. The F.B.I. ballistics evidence reported by the Federal grand jury found that police fired between 82'and 99-shots, while only one shot was fired from aweapon seized by police. It injured no one. Three young people were shot in cold blood in a center bedroom with no outside window or door through which a bullet could vanish. The Federal grand jury report was a whitewash. Even Senator John McClellan commented, "I doubt the legality of that report Incredibly, Mr. Hanrahan justifies the raid by saying it "was made pur-suant to a court order." But it was illegally executed at 4:45 A.M. by fourteen heavily armed police (a Thomp-son submachine gan, five shotguns, a carbine, 19 or 20 .38 caliber and one .357 pistols), who used no speaker system or lights, brought no gas or other nonlethal cootrol equipment and gave no reasonable warning before raking the premises with gunfire. Mr. Hansahan further cites admis-

But American pension-fund socialism has "socialized" the means of production without "nationalizing" them. Instead of the Government, the egent of socialism is an autonomous nonprofit "trustee," the employee's pen-

"property." They can neither be sold nor bought, can neither be mortgaged nor bequesthed. But they are clearly "wealth." Indeed, for the older family -the family with a breadwinner more then 50 years of age the pension-fund claim is a more valuable asset than the eutomobile or even the singlefamily house. And the wealth represented by pension-fund claims is distributed much more equally than any other item of wealth. If pension-fund claims were counted as "personal wealth," which indeed they are, we would at once see that the employed middle class, rather than the "superrich," "Own America."

The most important consequences of pension-fund socialism are still ahead. Managements have yet to think through how they need to relate to the new-owners, the beneficiaries of the pension funds, and how they could and chould bring this new "ownership. interest" into company structure and corporate policy. The pension funds equally will have to think through what rights and obligations they have acquired as the representatives of these new ownership interests. Union leaders will find increasingly that their own members are the "wicked capitalists." And the employees, above all, will increasingly find themselves related to the employer, both as "wage slaves" and as "owners," both with an interest in to day's wage income, and an ioterest in the profits that finance tomorrow's pensions. But the

Reform by Scandal

By James Reston

WASHINGTON, June 3-It would be too much to say that money, hooze end sex dominate tha politics of this city, but you can hardly explain recent history around here without taking them into account.

But for the tragedy at Chappaquiddick, with its Friday night high-jinks, there is little doubt that Senetor Edward Kennedy of Massacbusetts would now be the leading candidate for both the Democratic nomination and the Presidency.

For years, the House of Representatives had been bridling under the power of the Ways and Means Com-mittee and its effective but authoritarian chairmen, Wilbur Mills; but it took his splashy liaisoo with Fanne Foxe, otherwise known as the Argentine Firecracker, to bring his amorous ways and means to the rescue of the House.

The letest example of reform by scandal is the case of Wayne Hays Democrat of Ohio. He has been the House bully for years. No amount of personel arrogance, nepotism, or misuse of power had been able to bring him down, but fically he is oo his way out for running a personal nightshift with public funds.

The charge against him, it should be noted, is not thet be misused Elizabeth Ray but that he misused the Congressional treasury by arranging to pay her $14,000 a year for per-sonal services. Considering the work she bad to do and the company she had to keep, it might be argued thet she was underpaid.

Wilbur Mills was a sick man who earned the compassion of the House, but he took his lumps and disappeared. In contrast, Wayne Hays' resignetion from the chairmanship of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee was e masterpiece of hypoczisy. He was merely stepping aside temporarily, be suggested, because the political checks he would have to write might be used as a "campaign issue" against hie fellow Democrats. Io his book, anthing is bad except "bad politics."

Washington is paying a high price for reform these days, but maybe it's worth it. The misuse of Presidential power was obvious for yeers during the Vietnam War, but it look the spectacular scandals of Wetergate to reform campaign financing and bring the White House, the C.I.A., the F.B.I. and the other intelligence agencies under some kind of control.

In the process, the Congress howled against the corruptions of the executive branch. It put the impeachment processes of the Constitution into action egainst Richard Nixon, and with the aid of the courte, finally brought bim down. Now it will be interesting to ace whether the leaders of the House and Senate will get their own bouses in order. For while it would be a libel oo the Congress to suggest that Wayne Heys is typical of anything but his own arrogant hawdiness, the fact is that the Congressional staffs are not up to the standards imposed by the Congress itself on the executive civil service. And the standards of personal conduct on the Hill fall considerably below anything Congressional committees would tolerate from, say, members of the President's Cabinet.

Thus, we have heard very little about the Haya case from Speaker Carl Albert, the presiding Democrat in the House, which is not surprising, since he is not widely admired here as a model of temperance or Congressional probity. The problam of disciplining Mr. Hays was left to Tip O'Neill, the majority leader, and though younger members of the House and other House leaders urged him to insist that Hays resign all of his committee chairmanships pending resolution of the case, Mr. O'Neill gave him the easy way out.

This is oot likely, however, to be the end of the problem. Whatever happens in the Presidential election, the leadersblp on the Hill will be quite different next January. Mike Mansfield and Hugh Scott, the mejority and minority leaders of the Senate, will not be back next year, and their replacements have not yet been chosen.

Speaker Albert will either resign or, if he chooses to run egain, will almost certainly be challenged for his present iob. This was coming an before the Hays affair, and there is now a movement afout to defend the integrity of the Congress.

In his statement, Mr. Hays said: "I have become ewere of the coocern on the part of a number of Democrats thet my chairmanship of the Democratic House Campaign Committee places en unnecessary and unwarranted hurden on my fellow Democratic candidates."

This is the understatement of the year. It is not his chairmanship thet is at issue but his conduct that has finally awakened the so-called Ethics Committee from its prolonged snooze. If unpopularity were a cause for dismissal, Mr. Hays would have been sent. packing long ago; but now the House has a better case, and it might just take it. But don't het more than you'd like to lose.

Use of freeways for rapid transit is contrary to most urban planning here and elsewhere. Freeways were built to bypass high density areas; ideally, most planners believe, a rapid transit system should link euch areas-as the Wilsbire Boulevard subway would. But the Sunset Coast Line scheme has the political virtues of avoiding costly and controversial rights-of-way acquisition, and of serving more than half the 78 municipalities in the area.

posal, is sure that passengers will flock to his brainchild if it is built. Mayor Tom Bradley supports the plan, but the Los Angeles City Council is opposed. The L.A. Times bas raised serious questions about it and political huffs here generally believe the voters will reject the proposal, not least because approval would require e one-cent increase in the state sales tax for pay-as-you-go construction over 30 years, and to pay some operating Recently, Mr. Ward gained an important convert, the planning director for Los Angeles, Calvin S. Hamilton, hose; doubts were overcome by bis belief in an "absolute necessity" to provide an alternative to the automobile in this area. His reason is the drastic increase in the price of gasoline that be expects in cuming years; another is the possibility that some day there'll be no gas, or very little, available at any price.

Although no Sunset Coast Line trains would operate before 1984, anather impetus toward developing rapid transit here may he that, unless Coogress acts to prevent it, the Environmental Protection Ageocy probably will have to prohibit sales of gasoline in the metropolitan Los Angeles area after May 31, 1977. Existing E.P.A. regulations, which heve been sustained in the courts, will mandate this drastic action unless the area can find some means of meeting the national amblent air quality standards by that date.

Contrary to popular belief, however, rapid transit here might not do much to eliminate the famous Los Angeles smog If the line carried a million riders a day, as estimated, studies reported by The Times show that auto trips would be reduced only enough to cut air pollution hy e few percentage points, As. E.P.A. regulations make autos "cleaner," reducing auto usage will have even less effect on air pollution.

Opponents also argue that a rapid transit system would not produce large overall energy savings. Enormous energy expenditures would be required in construction, and operations oo the line when it is completed would take about. 270 megawatts of power, a quarter of the capacity of a large coal-fired or nuclear generator. Studies auggest, moreover, that transit riders tend to be drawn mostly from people who would otherwise ride bases or in carpools, rather than from private auto drivers.

But a rapid transit system could be operated without significant petroleum consumption, if the electricity were generated by other means, and that may be the best argument for the Sunset Coast Line, with all its faults. If for leck of oil this area someday had to give up its love affair with the eutomobile, there would be rails on the freeways to keep people moving.

Profits Are For People...

Ask Don Wells He's squeezing petroleum out of an east Colorado oil field.

Since 1971, we've spent nearly $440 million for exploration and production of oil and natural gas in the U.S. and overseas. To... meet our country's growing need for energy, we've expanded our domestic operations, including those in offshore Texas and Louisiana. In partnership with other companies, we've found big oil fields in the North Sea and important gas and oil deposits in Indonesia. And we're exploring in the Mediterranean, the Middle East, Western Europe and Canada.

Where do we get the money it takes to find and develop these sources of energy?

Like all companies, we rely on profits. Profits provide part of the expansion capital needed to start up new operations, modernize plants, control pollution and expand old businesses. Profits also enable us to borrow the rest of the capital we need. From 1971 to 1975, profits provided $276 million toward our investment in these job-creating activities. We raised many millions more through security offerings to individuals, institutions, pension funds and others who were attracted by our record of profitability and their faith in our future.

That's where profits go-into creative capital investment, to generate jobs, to keep our economy going and growing. Energy producers, like Don Wells know the real meaning of profits-for everyone.

ment with back pay. Diane Greble, a 25-year-old chemistry and binlogy teacher at Farmingdale High School on Long Island, had begun an exper-iment in her three 10th-grade biology classes last December to show that "yeast pro-duces alcohol and carbon dioxide during respiration without oxygen." Her students were told to bring in sugar, grape juice, yeast, glass jugs and ballonns. On Feb. 6, the last day of the school term.

the experiment ended and Mrs. Greble al-lowed each pupil "a small taste" of the wine, she said in papers filed in Federal Court in Brooklyn. But a spokesman for the school said that "there was a party going on" in Mrs. Gre-ble's classroom. The students had brought cakes into the class and party paper. In addition, the spokesman said, one student walked into the dean's office smelling of wine. When he was asked where he had got 11, he said he had been invited into Mrs Groble's class by a friend wbo was one of her students. Besides esking for reinstatement, Mrs. Greble is seeking compensatory end punitive damages.

The teacher contended in her suit that similar experiments had been carried out in the past and that her department chairman, Seymour Kopilow, had commented favor-ably when she told him she was carrying it out

After the Feb. 6 incideot, the principal, John McLennao, asked Mr. Kopilow. "Is it normal to have such an experiment?" He was told It was.

"Is it normal to have the wine tasted?" he asked.

"Yes," Mr. Kopilow replied. "Only one or two ounces are made."

But Mr. McLennan said yesterday: "This wasn't the ordinary experimental amount you or someone would expect would be more. It was wine-intoxicating liquor. No parent ever sends a child to school to receive alcohol. If he did, it would be against the law."

Mrs. Greble said that three days after the Feb. 6 wine tasting, she received word that she had been suspended. And then, about two weeks after that, while she was in a hospital for a treatment of an infec-tion, she received a letter saying she had been dismissed by the school board.

While imposing a 15-year minimum term before Mr. Kukl is eligible for parole. Acting Supreme Court Justice Joseph Martinis also recommended that the 41-year-old Mr. Yuki not be paroled as long as there was a risk he would commit another murder.

Partial Closing of Montefiore Urged

The Health Systems Agency explained yesterday that " it had not meant that all of Montefiore Hospital should be shut down when it included the hospital among 30 described in a draft proposal as "vulnerable" for closing. The agency, a federally financed nonprofit organization that has been delegated by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to devise a comprehensive plan for health services in New York, said it recommended that 332 of Montefiore's 788 beds be eliminated and that the rest of the facility be preserved.

To my horror," one homesick American recalled, "I discovered there was no good ice cream in the whole United Kingdom." And then it happened....

American Ice Cream Has Invaded Britain

By JUDITH WEINRAUB dal to The New York Times

LONDON, Juce 3 - Prince Charles has tried it twice. Lee Remick had it on her hirthday. Paul McCartney, Elliot Richardson, James Cohurn and Dirk Bogarde have queued up for it. And thousands of British students, European tourists, and bomesick Americans have suddenly discovered it.

American ice cream has invaded Brit-

"English ice cream has always beeo terrible," said Dee Wells, a writer, and author of the best-selling novel "Jane," who came to London over 20 years ago. "I used to buy one of those square ice cream bars in the park for my daughter. It would melt, but it would never lose its shape."

Uotil recently here, the words "ice cream" coojured up a vision of a bland, puffy substance filled more with air than aoything else, and oever ever with cream.

"When an American comes to Loodon he tries to fiod an agreeable substitute for the things he misses," said Leslie Slote, a food enthusiast and former press secretary under both Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefel-

"I began an immediate search for Ice cream," said Mr. Slote, who is an execuing in a stage production of "Bus Stop" here - who admitted to a preference for the toffee caramel crunch flavor.

Mr. Gutman estimates that weekly sales in the individual stores average more than £2,000 (about $3,400) a week.

"If you're prepared to wait 20 minutes for an ice cream cone on a Sunday afternoon, you'll get served," observed 24-year-old Steve Dench, manager of the Queensway branch of Dayvilles.

"People here like it because it's so good." said Mr. Dench who was wearing a red, white and blue Dayville's 32 flavors T-shirt. 'They've oever really had ice cream before."

The Queensway branch is located in the middle of a busy commercial oeigh-borbood, near Chinese, Italian and Greek restaurants, late-night supermarkets, and endless medium-priced hotels. Mr. Dench has ooted some rather unpredictable ethnic preferences for particular flavors.

Americans' Favorites

"The Chinese all go for coconut," be said: "The Americans prefer rocky road or German chocolate cake, and the 'Arabs tend to like straight strawberry, cbocolate or vanilla."

While the Dayvilles operation conceothe gamut of flavors from baoana split to bubble gum to star spangled berry (the flavor of the month for July), the more sedate, quality end of the market is represented by a company called New England Ice Cream.

Something Else

She said that she believed that children were a wom-an's responsibility but that women should not restrict themselves to just that. When the children were in school, or in day care cen-ters, women needed some-thing else to occupy themselves. She does not, she said, think it unfair that although she herself was the oldest child, as a woman it had not been possible for her to in-herit the throos of Greece.

"I never even thought of it," she said. Would her daughters, both older than ber 8-year-old son, Felipe, be eligible to in-herit the Spanish throne?

What lifted Mr. Slote's depression aod suddenly altered the ice cream market in Britain was the emergence of an American Revolution that began quietly a few years ago, and exploded last December with the opening of the first of a chain of Dayvilles 32 flavors ice cream parlors, modeled on the Baskin-Robbins concept.

Business Growing

This week the 10th, 11th, and 12th shops open, an additional 14 will be opeoed by July, and 100 are expected by thesend of the year.

Oshriel Gutman, a 38-year-old former American stockbroker who brought the multiflavor concept to Britain, is rhapsodic about the opportunities for real cream-based ice cream in this country.

There is superb cream in England, and excellent chocolate," he said. "Nobody ever married the two together. It's been driving me crazy for years. It's amazing nobody ever hrought it over before.

They don't know from ice cream in this country," said the actress Lee Remick, who has lived in Britain for almost seven years, and who was driving by Dayvilles with her soo the day it opened last December.

"There was that ever-loviog familiar sight — all while and clean. We went crazy," said the actress - now appear

Sold pre-packaged io specialty shops, supermarkets, and fancy delicatessens, New England ice cream is the inspira-tion of Bill and Susan Blackburn, two passionate ice cream devotees, who are dedicated to producing bigh-quality ice cream, using only natural ingredients. This July the Blackburns, both American expatriots, will launch yet another sybaritic temptation, when they open an old-fashioned soda fountain at Harrod's.

Once again their emphasis will be on natural ingredients and quality. "We'll have milkshakes, floats and hanana splits. There will be real blueberry sauce, genuine hot fudge and butter-scotch. It will be a very sensuous, very voluptuous thing," said the slender Mrs. Blackburn, coach outlining the next pass pattern, be started to draw circles, squares and arrows. The squares were generations of meo in the family, the circles were the women. He explained bow, in one instance, a grandmother's relationship to a favored granddaughterresulting in veiled resent-ment from the girl's mothermight be just the thing to perpetuate family conflicts that spanned generations. Dr. Guerin uses the "systems approach" to family problems that was largely developed by Dr. Murray Bowen, a psychiatrist at Georgetown University in Washington.

Lines of a Script

The New Rochelle center has become the main arm of that approach here. The center was begun three years ago but opened its clinic for family therapy only last September.

One object of the approach is to help familias realize that even the most trivial recurring family fights-fights over a child's taking out the garbage, or doing the disbes, or squeezing the toothpaste tube in the wrong spot-are not truly trivial but rather the lines of a script that could go back as many gen-erations as one wished to

So it is missing the mark to single out ooe child (often called the "symptomatic child") as the problem. If anything, when ona blames a single family member, it only takes the focus off the whole web of "ghosts," as they are called, that have led to the present conflict. It sometimes allows the parents to stand together as a team-"We parents"-against the child, who has learned his role well, too, and will play it to the hilt, contiouing cycle. (Some childreo find it less painful to draw the parents' fire than to see the parents fight.) A couple of families at the center the other day were prime examples. In one instance, the problem brought to the center was that of a teen-age boy who was rebeiling against school and his new mother - the divorced father had just remarried, to a woman whom the teen-ager initially approved of.

Dr. Guerin says that the teodency of scripts to repeat themselves is borne out despite the commonly made pledge not to commit the errors one's owo parents made.

for both these families was not an immediate attempt to illustrate on the blackboard what was happening. The first step was to get the fathers more involved in rais-

There has already been some improvement in each family, freeing the therapists to move on to the relatiooship between busband and wife.

The center is "action oriented," which means that a family member is oot put on the couch to work out all past relationships through talk, using the therapist as a foil. Instead there are assignments. A mother might be sent bome to visit ber

Born in New York City in 1917 Bishop Broderick taught English and history et Cardinal Hayes High School from 1943 uotil he went to St. Patrick's Cathedral in 1947 as a staff member. He later served as radio and television director for the diocese. In 1954, the late Francis Cardinal Spellman chose him as his eccretary. He became aux-illary hishop in 1967 and went to Albany in 1969. Bishop Broderick served on court-appointed ninemember Citizens' Committee thet investigated the 1971 Attica prison uprising. He has been a frequent church spokesman in Albany on egislative matters, including the abortion issue.

Loft Jazz Goes on a Three-Day Toot

By ROBERT PALMER

HE SHORTEST and least expensive jazz festival of the season-and one of the most action-packedbegins tonight at four performing lofts in downtown Manhattan.

The New-York Loft Jazz Celebration, as it's being called, runs from 8 this evening until Sunday. There will be 22 performances; by regular groups and 2 open jam sessions-63 bours of music in all.

It is doubtful that the schedule, which calls for two and all scheduled performances, can be purchased at the participatiog lofts. It's first-come first-seated, however.

The celebration, which is the result of an alliance of musicians known and uoknown, mainstream and avantgarde, is an important sign that New York's loft jazz subculture is maturing.

Lofts-the term is loosely applied these days and ofteo refers to first-floor performing spaces or basements, as well as to converted factory and industrial storage facilitieshave been the scene of important jazz developments sioce the early 1960's. When there were fewer jazz clubs and coffeehouses than today and jazz concerts were eveo riskier propositions, lofts were the only places many uncompromisiog, progressive musicians could perform. Most loft sessions were musicians-only events, but sometimes, the public was invited, and sometimes admission was charged: More organized loft operations, involving regular performance schedules and local advertisiog, developed during the late '60's, when coocerts and record companies organized and run by musicians also began to proliferate. At first these activities were seen by the musicians as alternatives to the world of major record compaoies, established concert promoters and jazz clubs, but many players now see them as supplements. In fact, some of the musicians participatiog in the celebration are associated with major record labels. Dave Liebman, the saxopbonist, and his band. Lookout Farm, performing in the Loft Jazz Celebration on Sunday evenlog, record for the A. & M. Records Horizon label, one of the most distinctive mass-distributed jazz

CHUMLEY'S IN VERSE

Chumley's is a Greenwich Village landmark, a restaurant of charm abutting a courtyard of charm all oo a quiet intersection of charm, oear Bed-ford and Barrow Streets. Years ago, Chumley's, which has no identifying sign, was even quieter — if memory serves-with the silence brokeo only by the moving of chess pieces and the puffing of pipe smokers. It's noisier now, but at 2 P.M. on some Saturday, like today, the quiet returns as the customers seal their lips and open their ears to poetry readings. Today the poets are Joao Larkin and Mimi Albert. At Chumley's tables, you pay a $2 minimum, which you may consume io food or drink. You can stand at the bar for no charge (but, really, it's more polite to buy something).

SILVERMINE ART SHOW

The Silvermine Guild of Artists is a venerable (54 years old) artists' coop-erative at 1037 Silvermine Road, New Canaan, Conn. (203) 966-5617. Today the guild is opeoing its 27th New England exhibition of painting and sculpture (through July 3), a yearly open competition that occupies four galleries on the spacious Silvermine property, six wooded acres, including a pond and gardens, where you can stroll and enjoy natural and human art. Also weaving and ceramics studio on view. Admission is free. Open daily, 12:30 to 5 P.M. Merritt Parkway to Exit 38 (from the east, Exit 39 or 40). London's 'Neil Simon,' Due Here, Is a New Boy in Town—At 89

Broadway John Corry

and the first of the second second

HE hottest playwright in London is Ben Travers, who has two comedies going for him now, with another comedy opening at the Sevoy next month. The two on the boards now are "Plunder" and "The Bed Before Yesterday," and the one opening next month is "Banana Ridge." This means that Mr. Travers is having a season un the West End similar to the ooes Neil Simon once had oo Broadway. Further comparisons, however, are hard to make, Mr. Travers is 89 years old, and he has never been on Broadway. "Plunder" was first dooe in 1928, and "Banana Ridge"

"Plunder" was first dooe in 1928, and "Banana Ridge" in 1938, which was not long before Mr. Travers stopped writing. He atarted again a little while ago, and wrote "The Bed Before Yesterday," which opeoed last October with Joan Plowright in the lead. She pleys e widow, who, in her middle age, discovers sex. Now, "The Bed Before Yesterday" will come to Broadway, possibly with Carol Channing as the widow.

Arthur Cantor, who is an old Broadway man, as well as the managing director of H. W. Tennent Ltd., the Loodon theatrical concern, is negotiating with Miss Channing. Mr. Cantor wants to put "Bed" on the road in October, and then bring it into New York around Christmas. If "Banana Ridge," which will star Robert Morley, is a hit, Mr. Cantor may bring that over, too. Mr. Travers could cooceivably then celebrate his 90th birthday with two shows on Broadway.

Boris Aronson does oot remember how many shows he has designed sets for, although he thinks it is at least 125, of which the most recent one, of course, is "Pscific Overtures." He won e Tooy for "Pacific Overtures." He won Tooys for five shows before that. He is a professional. He is slo a Russian, baving come bere from Kiev in 1923, and like other Russians who beve come bere and involved themselves in our cultural life (George Balanchine, for one; Vernon Duke, for another) he thinks deeply about America and his art. This is Mr. Aronsoo, thinking out loud:

"The most fantastic thing bappened to me when I did 'Company.' It was about what life in a big city does to marriage, and when I walked around downtown it looked to me as if New York was illustrating my sets. New York is undiscovered territory. It has not found a way to be presented. It has no tradition. In Versailles, you how. In New York, you dodge taxis. Paris is a picture postcard. New York . . . New York is always heing rehuilt.

York ... New York is always heing rehuilt. "I am very much interested now to do contemporary life, but there are not enough plays. The theater goes hackwerd and becomes repetitious. There is so much being dooe that is simple nostalgia, not even very good. This is too bsd. It is exciting today. All you do is read a newspaper. Fantastici Grotesquel All I read now is about the love affsirs of Presidents, Grotesquel But I don't see these things presented. All we do is review the past."

Mr. Aronson paused, although his accent hung in the "Theater is a collective, but lately it has been spending fantastic amounts of money on things that are not so good. Now I don't do so many shows, but I've done eight shows with Hal Prince, and this has been the high spot of my career. You know, I haven't the slightest idea of how I

Somewhere or other in New York there is always a "Hamlet" being done, or getting ready to be done, or at least heing thought about. The newest "Hamlet" will be an Equity approved showcase put do hy The Really Portabla Hamlet Company at Stage Oce et Stage 73 no East 73d Street. It will run from June 10 to 12, June 16 to 19 and June 22 to 26, and is supposed to be different in this way: Hamlet will realize that Claudius is really his father.

"Vanities." which has been doing well at the Chelsea Theater, has just been sold to the American Broadcasting Company. A.B.C. wants to do it as a series, and so Jack Helfner, the author of "Vanities," will now write a pilot about the pisy's three Texas cheerleaders and what happens to them over the years: Mr. Heifner, who is 30 years old began writing only two years ago, and he seems to be writing mostly about women. "Vanities" is his second play. The first, "Casserole," was done st. Playwrights Horizons. Mr. Heifner is a slight man with a mustache, from Corsicana, Tex., which calls itself "the fruitcake capital of the world." Here is his description of the creative process: "The first play was real hard, hut I did the draft of 'Vanities' in a couple of days. When I three girls from Texas in mind. By RAYMOND ERICSON

Those with a taste for hawdy ballads, raunchy roundelays, salacious serenades, doubles-entendres or even an outre overture might look into a program at Alice Tully Hail tomorrow at midoight, the first of two late night concerts. There they can hear works of such a nature from tha pens of highly respected and respectable composers of England's less staid eras. There will be more of the same from French and Italian composers, served up with program notes hut no English subtities. The performers were hte Ensemble for Early Music Gleemen, and the concert will last one hour and five mloutes, without intermission.

Some of the pieces to be offered include William Byrd's Prelude from "The Maidenhead" (from his music fur virginals) Thomas Campian's "Harke el you ladies that do sleep," Tobias Hume's "Peter's Pleasure," Rubert Jones's "Goe to bed, sweet muze" and Henry Purcell's "Pox nn you for a fop."

The program is one of two midnight concerts being presected by George Cochran, an uld hand at this kind of event. The second concert will take place in Alice Tuily Hall a week from tomorrow when the music will be by Bach's sons—Wilhelm Friedemann, Johann Christian, and Carl Philipp Emanuel. Sneaking into the lineup will be P.D.Q. Bach, who was unfortunately discovered hy nne Peter Schickele. P.D.Q.'s contribution will be "Last Tango in Bayreuth," to be played by four lady hassoonists. Besides this quartet, the performers will be the Allison Instrumental Ensemble; Ingrid Dingfelder, flutist, and Gerald Ranck, harpsichordist.

Midnight Pioneer

Alexander Schneider, the well-known violinist, conductor and teacher, is generally thought to be the pioneer here in midnight concerts. He gave hia first one at the Circle in the Square in 1952 under the auspices of Theodore Mann. the theatrical producer. The idea was picked up in 1965 hy Jay K. Hoffman and George F. Schutz, two young impresarios, who sponsored what they called "Late, Late concerts" in Philharmonic Th (now Avery Fisher) Hall. The concerts actually began at 11:30 P.M. and were subtitled "For the neglected oight people of New York." The series had such distinguished artists as Karl Richter, organistconductor, Jean-Pierre Rampal, flutist, and Paul Badura-Skoda and Joerg Demus, duosa pianists.

Comparable to Movies

Mr. Schutz, who is still active as a manager, said the other day that he and Mr. Hoffman had hoped to make the concerts comparable to' movies, with low prices and no intermission. They had hoped to attract young couples on dates who wanted to extend their evening: If they had been to a late film and didn't want to go home yet, the concert would be the solution. It worked for about four or five years. Mr. Schutz. said that they were in a constant panic before each concert, because they would have an advance sale of only 5 percent. The rest of the eudience, which usually reached 75 percent of capacity, al-ways came at the last minute. Even Calvin Hampton, or-

The Great Belmont Stakes The classic event for three-year-olds.

Tomorrow at Belmont Park, Bold Forbes, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and his jockey Angel Cordero, take on one of racing's greatest challenges in the classic Belmont Stakes.

The big question is can they win in this demanding mile and a half test. Speed alone won't win. It's going to take stamina and a great heart. Because in this final leg of racing's Triple Crown, it's a long way to the finish line. And the Belmont Stakes always attracts a field of top three-year-olds.

If you've never seen a great race in person, this is the one to start with!

And that's not all. Throughout the day, Belmont Park will continue its festival of live, big name music in the Backyard Bandstand, starting at 12:15.

Keuter, Niels Kehlet, Vivi Flindt and Henning Kronstam.

So does the rather younger Sorella Englund, who has been seen in the title-role of "La Sylphide" and is regarded as one of Denmark's more promising dancers with a strong classical technique. She is a typical product of the Danisheschool. One of the most dis-tinguished of the Danish

Copenhagen earlier this year some ways he can be compared with Donald MacLeary, now Ballet Master of the Royal Ballet in London, for one of the hallmarks of the Danish style. In Bournonville's "Far From Denmark," as the young naval-nfficer hero he scarcely had to dance a step, yet he was able to fill the

he was a courtly prince in his dancing days. But Mr. Kron-stam also enjoyed a remark-able talent for acting that is stage with his presence. A Classical Virtuoso The same could be said of Niels Kehlet, but Mr. Kehlet is a great character and al virtuoso dancer, and although his dancing is Splen-did in such ballets as "Etudes," he also excels as Mercutio in "Romeo and Juliet," and the paranoid Dancing Master in Flemming

Flindt's "The Lesson." His style, bounce, verve and good humor are both spectacular and yet charm-ing, and he is technically probably one of the very strongest male dancers that Denmark - which is famnus for its male dancers, as the City Ballet and Mr. Balanchine have discovered has ever produced.

It would be difficult to imagine two more contrasted modern-dancers than the still moderately young Cliff Keuter, who has graduated to his own company after ap-pearing with the Dance Theater Workshop and Paul Taylor. and Daniel Nagrin, who is now presumably one of the best veteran modern dancers.

Both of them, of course, are also choreographers. Mr. Kenter has something of the avant-gardist, absurdist manner of Louis Falco, whereas Mr. Nagrin is a dancer and choreographer of great power and strength whose style stems partly from that of the late Helen Tamiris, to whom he was once married.

So there they are, 10 danc-ers, who will stand out among the hundreds — rang-ing from the little children the City Ballet and the Danes right through to the dance veterans — on New York's remarkable assortment of dance stages this weekend

Come to Stratford, Connecticut. Come to The American Shakespeare Theatre. Come to The Stratford Experience.

It's all here. Waiting for you. In this; our 22nd Season, we offer the theatre of Shakespeare with As You Like It and The Winter's Tale. And, The Crucible, by Arthur Miller.

There's more. Much more. Our theatre is surrounded by The Stratford Experience. Scenic, restful, beautiful. Spend some time in our unique Costume Museum. Sightsee. Picnic outside under a shade tree or on the banks of the Housatonic River. Dine inside at a charming New England restaurant.

HE UPPER East Side has singles bars. The Upper West Side has bookstores.

It is Saturday night upstairs at the New Yorker bookstore on West S9th Street, although it could just as well be Friday night on the ground floor of Radius, formerly the Book Gallery, at 240 West 72d Street or Sunday afternoon in Nine Ninety-Nine West on Broad-way. If she is looking at "Thus. Spake Zarathustra," he will say: "According to Paster-nak, Nietzsche's principal business was to be the trans-mitter of the bad taste of his period. Do you grok?" If, on the other hand, she is thumbing through a copy of "Fear and Trembling," he will say: "Kierkegaard once claimed that he would have been happier as a police spy; he had a decided talent for it. Outasight."

After an hour of this small change, together they will descend the preposterously steep and narrow starcase to the street. She asks whether he, like Camus, is a little repelled by the fantastic ele-ment in Kafka? Not at all. wonders whether, she would like to see his collec-tion of Louis Seize com-modes? You bet. what he doesn't have. On Sunday mornings at 11, there's a story hour, with reading aloud.

Continue uptown to Nine Ninety-Nine West (at 2345 Broadway; there's also an East Side store at 999 Mad-ison Avenue). This is a standard, all-purpose New York bookstore, with the usual hard-cover best sellers, the usual table of remaindered books and a solid representa-tion of paperbacks, sensibly categorized. What distinguishes Nine Ninety-Nine West is, again, helpful people who know their stock and are willing to order for you and reliable about letting you know when the book you've ordered comes in. If, then, you've dawdled Sufficiently, it might be l o'clock and the time when Munder Ink (271:West 87th Street) opens. Opening time depends on the whim of the owner, Dilys Winn. It is char-acterized by a cat and a clubby atmosphere. Murder Ink habitues, band together during the winter to hear lec-tures by writers, former con-victs, forensic, pathologists victs, forensic, pathologists and the like. They also go on camping trips, such as a coming charter tour of those parts of England associated with literary huggermugger. Many regulars appear, to be writing murder mysteries of their own, and like to sit however, run hy people who know and care about hooks, nue abides instead of by people who seem to think that hibliophilla'is something the Supreme Court doesn't permit between stores consenting adults. There are other such stores elsewhere than the Upper West Side, for instance the Argosy (116 East 59th), which may be the best all-purpose bookstore in Manhattan; and the Metro-politan (on 23d Street, off Madison Avenue), full of surwhich prises; the Gotham Book Mart (41 West 47th Street), without mich room to move of the around in and rather high fusty priced, and, of course, the Strand (at Broadway and covere 12th Street), which actually of mu: has hard-cover hooks more discov

Stony Brook Relives

By MURIEL FISCHER

In a wide, grassy meadow called Forsythe Pasture, just beyond Hawkins Road in the village of Stony Brook, L.L., some 1,000 men, women and children-in costumes hand-made and intricately detailed -will gather together tomorrow and Sunday to recreate a vivid picture of colonial Long Island at work, at home nics and vests will be making bowls, brooms, shingles and ropes; also, blacksmithing. coopering, pewtering and whittling. Women in broom skirts, mobcaps and dresses plain or fancy will be baking bread, churning butter, tal-lowing candles and rendering soap: weaving, dyeing, spin-ning and stitching crewel, quilts, samplers and rugs.

Youngsters in 18th-century apparel will be assisting as apprentices, preparing mate-rials for the master craftsmen, learning their trades.

And the small ones will be at play, with handmade dolls and toys—kites and hoops, marbles and tops; spinning, skipping, stilt walking and jumping rope, playing leap-frog, hopscotch, skittles and tag. This is Festival '76, an earnest, endearing demonstra-tion of the foik life and craft activities of Colonial Long Island, geared to salute the nation's Bicentennial celebration and to benefit the History Museum of the Museums at Stony Brook.

The two-day festival will be open 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. each day. The $2 admission ($1 for children 6 to 12 and senior citizens) covers parking, shuttle bus transportation from the parking lot or railroad station to the festival site and a bus tour of the museum complex, which includes a carriage house, an art museum, a museum store, a craft center, period buildings and a grist mill. At the mill, grain will be ground and "colonists" will be performing carpentry, woodworking

On Sunday and Monday the theater will be offering a crash course for people wanting to brush up on their Bette Davis impersonations; a double bill of the tarrible "Payment on Demand" (1951) made a year after the classic "All About Eve," and the original "Of Human Boodage" (1934), which is a far from great film though the Davis performance is interesting, not because it's so accomplished but because it demonstrates now much she grew as an actress in later years. The movie is actually pretty tacky. In addition to its regular programs of revivals, the Bleecker Street is also offer-ing a Louis Malle retrospective on Tuesdays this month. Next Tuesday's bill consists of "The Thief of Paris," which I haven't seen, and "The Fire Within" (1964), a bleak but extraordinarily affecting study of a man systematically and without fuss going about the business of his own suicide. There are quite a few science fiction movies scheduled to come out in the next year or so. We shall be lucky if even one or two are as absorbing and as beautiful as 'The Man Who Fell To Earth.' A first-rate achievement. -Richard Eder, The New York Times

An experience much like '2001: A Space Odyssey'. —Jerry Deter, New York Daily News

Fascinating to watch, filmed with hypnotic effect, the film is visually arresting. It rivets your attention. ---William Wolf, Cue

It's an experience, mystic and mysterious that bestirs the brain much as did 'A Clockwork Orange'. -Robert Salmeggi, WINS Ra -Robert Salmeggi, WINS Radio

Tremendous style, visually very, very striking. David Bowie's casting is inspired, a sort of Howard Hughes from Mars. Candy Clark is absolutely superb. ---Wallar Spencer, WOR Radio

It stimulates the imagination. God knows this is rare. -Lynn Minlon, Critic, McCall's Magazine

This is an attention-holding space thriller and love story. Violent, sexy and imaginative, it is an impressive example of masterly direction and editing. Candy Clark could earn another Oscar nomination. -Norma McLain Stoop, Afler Dark

First-rate, superior, grounded in the things that make life meaningful: love, family connections and the instinct for survival, -Jim D'Anna, WRVR Radio

A complex, thoroughly fascinating film certain to remain in your mind for a long time. -Aaron Schindler, Family Circle

The Farce of Farces

ivone of these films, though, is likely to provide the pleas-ure of "Twentieth Century," which came to be the film by which all subsequent Hol-lywood farces (including Mr. Hawkes's own "Bringing Up Baby" and "His Ghi Friday") were to be measured. Never, I think, has mania been so boisterously and hu-manely ridicaled as it is in this film, for which the Hecht-MacArthur stage play (in turn based on a Bruce Milholland play) was simply a trailer. Some of the funniest material in the film the prologue that tells how the egocentric Broadway producer and his former star came to be on the famous Chicago to New York train-is not in the original Hecht-MacArthur play. In this case, the film is miles ahead of the play, which it was not fashionable to admit in 1934.

Though "Twentieth Century" is very much about the theater and theatrical personalities of is own day, its accuracy and vitality remain undiminished, not only because the authors knew what they were writing about and wrote some of their most lyrical lines of abuse and sarcasm ("He woo't kill himself-it would please too many people"), but also because both star performances remain unique.

Opulant Prospects

Neither Barrymore nor Lombard, I think, ever had a finer single moment on film than the sequence in which Oscar and Lilly are sparring about her possible return from Hollywood to the Broadway theater in bis production of the Passion Play, in which she'd play Mary Magdalen. Oscar is drawiog a vivid word picture of the magnificeoce of the production. "One hundred cameis," says Oscar, whom Lilly knows to be flat broke. "Real sand, imported from the Holy Land, Lilly's eyes pop for a second or two, then she starts to giggle nastily.

"Til make you immortal," says Oscar. Lilly is practical. "I've deLIV ULLMANN

"HAWMPS is sheer amiability! A funny picture, its humor very broad but unfailingly good-natured. Joe Camp has a feel for what is cinematic and a genuine affection for his actors. James Hampton attains star status."

"HAWMPS is a whimsical, slapstick funny comedy with dazzling cinematography of the Old West ... a family entertainment with real excitement. Bonus — a documentary on the life of the magical dog Benji that's worth the price of admission." "HAWMPS is extra-compensating, imaginative entertainment and its sight gags, appearing almost throw-away, are continually fresh."

the World Ended. It is the next disaster epic to be produced by Irwin Allen ("Poseidon Adventure" and "Towering Inferno"). This one is about the destruction of an island by a volcanic eruption.

Mr. Foreman, back in California after more than 20 years in Britain-he went there after refusing to talk about anyone but himself to the House Un-American Activities Committee-is not entirely comfortable at finding himself the screenwriter for somebody else's movie.

He was a screenwriter once, and a fine one: "Home of the Brave," "Champion," "High Noon" and others. Then his career was smashed, and when he recovered it in London, it was as a producer, with more muscle, more prestige. Why is he working for Mr. Allen?

Though Mr. Foreman's "Guns of Navarone" was a hig pic, it was a literate spic. Mr. Allen's epics, though sometimes exciting, are not. The first answer was that he didn't have much else to do this summer. Two film projects of his own are temporarily "in hiatus."

"Then Irwin came along and took me up to the top of the mountain," Mr. Foreman said. "He offered me more money than I'd ever heard of before."

Mr. Foreman went on to say that he admired Mr. Allen's flair and bigness. He thought the two of them would work well together, each making compromises; although Warner Brothers was insistent, he said, that he produce "recognizable Irwin Allen characters, as estab-lished in 'Poseidon' and Towering Inferno.'"

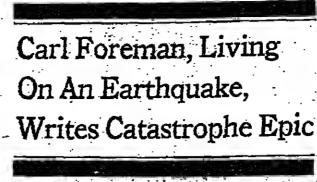

"How do I justify this to myself?" It was his question. His answer: the San Andreas Fault

"Everybody is reading about the earth bulging, right at their breakfast table. Nobody's leaving. Maybe they'll take out more earthquake insurance.

"We all live on the edge of an earthquake; material, emotional or whatever. I feel there's a valid theme here, and that's the way I intend to write it."

With a certain corporate gingerliness-not much pro-motion, for instance-Columbia Pictures is unleashing a film attack upon the nuclear family. The nuclear family has been through a lot of attacks, but this one is carried out with something approaching a nuclear weapon.

The film, "The Last Woman," is opening here early next week. It is by Marco Ferreri, an Italian who makes French films with a Spanish screenwriter and who manages to startle, outrage and sometimes to please. Mr. Ferren has been setting off explosive charges for years, though some of them left only little holes. Among . his previous films are one about a man who marries an old woman to inherit her apartment, another-about an old man who poisons his family to buy a wheelchair, a cowboy film set in Paris and "La Grande Bouffe." which tells of four friends who est themselves to death.

"The Last Woman" is about the disintegration of a young man and woman who live together in a sleek, im-personal apartment development beside a gariably modern French factory. Nothing comes or goes through the windows or the door, they are a modular unit of society and . totally cut off from it.

. It is full of sex, pain and ludicrousness; it has what is reported to be a spectacular performance by Gerard Depardieu; and it bas for an ending an act of protest so startling and grotesque that to describe it would spoil either the spectator's movie or the reader's breakfast. . . .

Why bother with the real if you can use the counterfeit? David Wolper hopes to make some real money out of a counterfeit film life of the late Howard R. Hughes. It is based on the manuscript that Clifford Irving attempted to pass off as the tycoon's genuine memoirs. After his spell in jall, Mr. Irving is reportedly planning to publish the manuscript under the title of The Untrue Biography of Howard Hughes." This seems to rely on the same quirk of consumer psychology that makes cigarette manufacturers spend money to advertisecourtesy of the Surgeon General - that their product will make you sick.

Mr. Wolper is thinking of a less re sibly "The Billionaire," but he says i labeled a "fictionalized biography."

But why spend a lot of mooey to of Hughes rather than a real one? I philosophical. In fact, he waxed epister know the truth, was his polot. "Look at that funeral." he said. "Th party raffle, in which the first prize is a two-week British Airways London Show Tour for two, and the second, a color television set.

Most of the history will lie in the walking tour as well as in the dramatic retelling of Mary 'Lindley Murray's afterancen and evening in 1776 with Sir William Howe, the British general, that allowed an American force to retreat unmolested.

Mr. Marks says his tour will begin on the southeast corner of 35th Street and Park Avenue-the three other hourly tours will follow at 5 minute intervals-diagoally across the street from 16 Park Avenne, where a plaque indicates approxi-mately the site of Belmont, the home of Robert Murray and his wife, Mary Lindley. Divergence of Views

They were wealthy Quak-ers, he was a Loyalist, she supported the Revolution, and Murray. Hill is named for them. In 1776 Mary Murray and her daughters-all beau-tiful women-are said to have entertained General Howe, covering the disorder-ly retreat of Silliman's Bri-gade and Knox's Artillery un-der the command of General Putnam and Aaron Burz-

Most stories say that Mary Murray entranced the gener-al over lunch. Robert Sherwood mede it an evening affair, ona which drew this description from Walter Karr: "... a thoroughly relaxed General Howe ... sits sip-ping wine like the connoisseur be is, admiring from across the room the exceed-ing loveliness of a lady bent on trapping him for tha night.' Afternoon lunch, or eveoing madeira, no metter, the Mary Murray Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution thought ecough of the tale to put up a plaque for Mrs. Murray two blocks away in the Park Aveoue Mail at 37th Street. From 35th Street the tour will pass north along Park Avenue, where Mr. Marks says he will discourse on the origins of "Park Avenue," ooce an open area along the railroad sidings running from 32d to 42d Streets, and past the Hampton Robb House, a reddish stone building designed by Stanford White, which was at one time the home of the Advertising Club of New York, but which, ac-cording to Mr. Marks, is now vacant.

The tour will turn left, or west, at 36th Street and meander through the Morgan Library, then oorth to the Lutherao Church Hnuse at Madisoo Avenue and 37th Street, which had been J. Pierpoot Morgan's home. Across the street is the De-Lamar mansion, a Beaux Arts bnuse designed in 1905 for a sea captain-stock bro-ker, which for 50 years, from 1923, was the National Democratic Club. Io 1973 it be-came the Consulate General of tha Polish People's Repub-

The tour will then go east on 37th Street back to Park Avenue and theo across to the southeast corner of Park Avenua and 38th Street to the Courch of Our Savior, built in 1959 after a design by Prul C. Reilly. The building has the largest monolithic marble columns of any church in the city, according to Mr. Marks. On the way back south along Park Avenue the tour will stop at 37th Street to view the Mary Murray plaque, then return to 35th Street for the tour's conclusion.

The Community Church Gallery will be presenting a free slide show, from I to 5 P.M. devoted tn the history of Murray Hill from Mary Murray's time through 1847, when it abruptly ceased to be quiet farm land, and into nodern times. Murray Hill was one of the first communities to become aware that residential zoning ordioances were neces-sary if homes were not to become newly mechanized fectories and businass sites.

Back in the 1700's, no livery stables would be al-lowed nor slaughtar houses, smithies nr forges. No gun-powder could be manufac-tured, oor could glue, vitrinl, ink or turpentine. Nor could there be museums, theaters or circuses. The oeigbborhood continued its hard line residential stand as late as 1914 when the Murray Hill Association was formed by

J. Pierpoot Morgan in an ef-fort to block the building of apartment houses. It failed. With the coming of Grand Central Terminal, hotels bloomed in the area, mingling with the brownstones, mansiooa, carriage houses and mews, armories and schools, Murray Hill is the home of the Union League Club and the Old Grolier Club. Withio its geoerally defined borders of 34th to 42d Streets, and Madison Avenue to the East River stand buildings constructed under the influence of the Italian Renaissance, the Aztecs, the Victorians, the Remans and gothic builders as well.

Visitors are invited to wander among Murray Hill's streets and gaze, that is when they're not watching the chef from the area's newest hotel, the Kitano-which was converted from the old Murray Hill residential hotel at Park Avenue and asth Street, by a Japanesa syndicate—demonstrate Jap-anese cooking and disburso free samples. Or when they're not listening to the town criers roamiog 35th Street, or taking their, children to the puppet, magic and face-paint-iog shows.

All funds will go toward keeping Murray Hill green-and clean-Mr. Dennis said.

Architecture: Barragan at Model

By PAUL GOLDBERGER Lins Barragan's architecture is little known to the American public, but his buildings and monuments are among the supreme works of contemporary architecture in Merico. They are abstract in one sense because they rely heavily on simple geometric forms and straight lines, yet, they tie deeply into the tradi-tion of Mexico by their use of rich color, serene gardens and stucco walls.

It is not an architecture casity reproduced, since its pri-mal qualities cry out to be experienced. Volume and the subtle juxtaposition of formsin space, changing as one moves position, are crucial to an understanding of Barragan's places.

But the Museum of Modern Art and Emilio Ambasz, its curator of design, have done an admirable job in trying to communicate Barragan's. work in a new exhibition, "The Architecture of Luis Bernard " Analian inday of Barragan," opening today at the museum's Goodwin Galleries, where it will run through Sept. 7. The exhibi-tion wisely makes no attempt to recreate literally the ex-perience of visiting a Barra-gar. Building, instead, it instead, it slides with a thoughtful nar-rision.

Especially moving are the views of Barragan's foun-tains and momments, Sich as Los Clubes of 1963-64 to the Mexico City suburbe where water and shadow play against the intersecting planes of warning colored

"Macbeth" ERDIS received the inimitable Sarah Caldwell Wednesday touch night io the Opera Company of Boston's final production of the season. Miss Cardwell's staging of the 1865 revised. version of the opera was full of her customary vivid theatrical ideas, some of them strong and effective, others arbitrary and infuriating. The overall somber nature of the stage pictures created an appropriately dark and brooding atmosphere, h-ight-ened by the stark, eeric sets by Herber Senn and Helen Pond. The offstage murder of King Duncan, the discovery of his corpse and subse-quent chaotic finaie were paced with a superb sense of the dramatic momeot.

Miss 'Caldwell's treatment of the witches was interest-ing. Most "Macbeth" productions minimize the participa-tion of these unintentionally humorovs creatures, geoeral-

EA VENTURE, which has been in operation, for about a year and a half at 1359 First Avenue, corner of 73d Street, is one of the rare New York fish restaurants that thinks a fish restaurant can be a restaurant first and ilshy second, by which I mean that it doesn't pretend you're at dockside and hence ready to put up with crowded tables result accessing and heave-bo up with crowded tables, casual accessories, and heave-bo service, all rationalized as atmosphere. There's no reason a fish (seafood, if you wisb) restau-rant can't be elegant and although Sea Venture isn't exactly Primier reborn, it does distinguish between city din-ing and mess call on a trawler. None of the three mailres d'hotel who greeted us on different occasions were very impressive, the first being bored to death with his job and the other two being more interested in joshing around with the star the in baseling and a second with the start but events the staff than in keeping an eye on the service; but everything is forgiven-everything because one of the latter, at the request of a table near ours, turned off the music in our section.

Sea Venture has live music at some hours, but the rest of the time it is taped stuff, ill-selected in the first, place and hadly reproduced in the second. The relief when it went off was delectable, and I would like to ask all restaurant owners in New York this goestion: Have you ever turned the music off at the request of one diner and had another diner ask that it be turned back on?

A first test, simple brailed red snapper (36.75) was passed with honors. Equally high marks went to grilled bay scallops ($8.95). Entrees include either rice or baked potato (french files on request, we discovered) and either cole slaw or salad. The cole slaw is a nice, fresh, crisp version of the good old standard. The salad is an acceptable mix-ture of greens with bits of tomato topped with carrots lined with carrots sliced as thin as vells, very nice, but the so-called French dressing we chose turned out to be that slick pink stuff that comes in a bottle. Or a vat. Surprising, because it was and lobster tail combination at $11.95. Both members of this team were well represented the time we tried it, but it's a lot of mooey and when we go back, it will be the broiled snapper again. There is a crabmeat curry at $9.75 that should please anyoos who likes curries sweet. We are antisweet and pro-spice in the curry department, and this one tasted as if it had orange marmalade in it, but this is stated not as an objection, but as a characterization. The crabmeat itself was impeccable.

The most sensible-looking item on a seductive pastry table was an apple tart, which turned out to be a good choice. With vanilla ice cream added it came to something like $3, although my notes don't have the exact price.

tresh and pleasant. There are healthy plants around, always desirable dining companions. All told, very good, and recommended.

There are two Taco Villas, Mexican restaurants on the West Side, one at 368 Columbus Avenue at 77th Street, the other at 2785 Broadway at 107th Street. They have the same menu and might be identical twins in decor (serapes, iron chairs, tiles, things like that; attractively disposed) except that the Broadway twin is much smaller, aboot balf the size of the Columbus Avence twin, in both its glassedin sidewalk terrace and its inner room. And the Columbus Avenue Taco Villa has a full liquor license while the Broadway one serves only beer and wine. The Columbus terrace has the advantage of being just across the street from the American Museum of Natural History, a handsome building set among trees that just now are at their most beautiful. The variegated sidewalk populace of that part of the city also makes for a very good passing show. At Broadway and 107th there isn't much to look at in the way of either nature or architecture; and the live show can have some pretty rough spots, which accounts for the difference in stars. Any differences in the preparation of food probably balance out. At both places we had mole verde ($4.75), as good as

In addition to the celebration, there are other signs that New York's loft jazz, one of the few sutheotic under-ground musical activities left in the city, is about to go overground on a national scale. Alan Douglas, a record producer whose projects have included the Last Poets. Jimi Hendrix's posthumous recording releases and the first American disks by the jazz-rock guitarist Jobo McLaughlin, recorded the entire spring festival at Studio Rivbea and plans to issue a series of loft jazz anthology records. Rivbea will be presenting the same lineup of groups at its summer festival, July 1-10, with three groups performing

We can seat 150 people comfortably, 250 maximum, but we've occasionally had 700 or 800 people show up." Seating at the Rivbea summer festival, like the celebration, will be first come, first-served.

Art: Warhol Meets Wyeth

By HILTON BRAMER

T MAY or may not be true, as George Orwell believed, that every man gets the face he deserves at the age of 50, but it is undoubtedly true that certain faces sooner or later —exactly when depends on the vagaries of publicity—. get the portraits they de-

This particular form of pictorial justice has now been meted out to both James Wyeth and Andy Warhol who, in a rare display of mutual self-sacrifice, have submitted to the ordeat of having their portraits painted by each other. by each other.

The results currently on view at the Coe Kerr Gallery, 49 East 82d Street (through July 9)-constitute a notable event, if not exactly in the history of art, then surely in the history of artistic celebrity. Here are two artists who, for the last decade, have seemed to occupy opposite poles in the world where art is preposterously overpraised and sold at ridiculously high prices and where as a consequence, it acquires a fame and, distinction out, of all proportion to its actual esthetic merit. Not surprisingly, they turn out to have quite a lot in common.

Mr. Wyeth, 'scion of 'a family 'of famous artists, represents everything that is retrograde about the old, conservative realism, for his art is little more than a facile rehearsal of academic tech-nique at the service of a moribund "tradition." Mr. Warhol, the Pop artist who became the darling of the gossip columnists and the baeu monde, represents what, in the discotheque at-mosphere of the 60's, it pleased a great many people to mistake for something avant-garde. Each seemed to embody an esthetic principle that negated what the other stood for.

Yet, seeing thir work side by side on this ocassion, it is clear that both are really skilled illustrators plying a popular trade in the produc-tion of easy, ephemeral im-ages. They differ only in the means they employ in reach-ing a similar end. Whereas Mr. Wyeth offers us a slick parody of the old academic mannerisms, Mr. Warhol gives us a slick variation on. modernist reductionism. In the end, however, it comes to the same thing a vulgar, vacuous, theatrical art that ministers to a cheap and ready taste.

As an exercise in the exploitation of such taste, this show-coosisting of draw-ings as well as the finisted portraits does have an unarchetypal, interest. For. its underlying, unacknowledged scenario is a curious, all-male Version of Beauty and the

of Mr. Wyeth, whose handsome features are readered by Mr. Wartiol in his familiar movie-poster manner. There are six silkscreen-and actvlic versions of this "Portrait of Jamie," : hased on polaroid pictures, but there could easily be 60. The color varies, but the image is the samea cosmetic cliche in which personality is sacrificed to the artifice of glamour. More interesting than Mr. Warhol's paintings are his drawings; which recall Jean Cocteau's pastiche of Picas-so's neoclassical style. And indeed, Mr. Wyeth emerges from these drawings looking more than a little like Coceau's androgenous vision of Jean Marals.

Mr. Warhol, on the other hand, with his acid yellow hair and red-blotched face and vacant stare, makes the perfect figure of a Beast in this pictorial fable. Mr. Wyeth has been unspariog in depicting this unlovely countenance-so unrelievedly gro-tesque that one wonders if Mr. Warhol, with his uofail-ing instinct for theatrical effects, had not got himself "made up.", for the part.

Then there are Mr. Wyeth's drawings, which give us a drawings, which give is a more benign and more affec-tionate account of Mr. War-hol, They are the kiod of drawings you might expect to see adorning the pages of. New. York, magazine—illustrating, say, a story about Andy Warhol and his beloved dachshund, Archie, It is Archie, by the way, who ap-pears in both the finished portrait and in many of the drawings; that is the most appealing figure in the show. In this celebrity charade of Beauty and the Beast, only Archie strikes us as somehow Ettle "human" -

HERE is something about the sight of a bare, coocrete piazza. that sets our city's more public-spirited art lovers salivating. And so it is with the vast open arena et Water-side, the newish apartment complex on the East River at 26th Street. Last year the high-minded Public Arts Couocil (a private, nonprofit group) sponsored a show there of tensile metal structures by Kenneth Snelson. And now, begioning tomor-row, the council will serve up a six-month exhibition of Dennis Valinski'a "gauze sculptures"—giant, aerial con-structions, of subtly tinted modacrylic fabric rimmed with rattan and intended, according to the sculptor, to give the effect of "wash drawings in space."

The splashiest of the works is called "Sundrop," a 60-foot cornucopia of bright yellow "gauze." whose base is ringed with sky-blue leaf forms atached to hickory boughs. It will sway suspended be-tween two 40-story apart-ment towers, over clumps of greeoery oear the river's adge, some 10 to 12 feet above the heads of viewers.

"Sculpture today is much too esoteric. It refers to itself, to other artists and their problems," says Mr. Valinski, who at the age of 29 has behind him a Master of Fine Arts degree from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago and a stint at teaching art in a New Jersey high achool. "I'm trying to make my work a little less formal, dealing with basic human feelings instead of notions about art.

Mr. Valinski, thin, bearded and intense, started out working with metal. But a visit with his students to the Storm King Art Ceoter in Mountainville, N.Y., and the outdoor Art Park in Cornwall, N.Y., convinced him that contemporary sculpture "bad little relation to the esthetic informatioo in the landscape." He added: "I thought there could be a more intimate blendiog between outdoor sculpture and their sites so I started playiog with mesb fabric, through which the suo and atmos-phere could filter."

When Mr. Valinksi first saw Waterside, at the behest of Doris Freedman, chairman of the Public Arts Coun-cil, he recalled thinking: Wow, How do you place something there that doesn't shrink to the size of an ant?" He believes he has solved the problem with "Sundrop." It works, rather than competes, with the architectural spaces," he said. "As It sways in the wind, It locks itself into the landscape between the trees, then breaks away formance."

Publishing: Brodkey Delivers

By THOMAS LASK

AROLD BRODKEY'S oovel, "A Party of Animals" (sometimes known as "Animal Corner"), is finally in at the office of Farrar, Straus & Giroux. "A Party of Animals" has been one of the most anticipated works of fiction in the last five years. Bits and pieces have appeared in American Review, Esquire and American Poetry Review. One lengthy segment was published only receatly in The New Yorker, which had once run a briefer passage.

For the publisher it has been a long wait. The original contract was signed 16 years ago, Roger Straus, president oft be firm said. But there are no complaints. "An amazing work," he calls "A loog Proustian novel that takes the main character from childhood to his graduation from college."

The typescript runs to 2,000 pages. On the basis of the published fragments, the Book-of-the-Month Club took it as an alternate selection. and after the judges have had a look at the complete rovel, it could turn up as a main selection.

Publication is still a while off, about a year Mr. Straus estimates.

News of the Book-of-the-Month action left Mr. Brodkey skeptical. "I am a pessimist by train-ing," he said. "One of my favorite words is 'The void." It has been a long, long haul "I am emotionally finished." What's next?

There isn't anything oext. I can't teil you how dead I am." Told of the Proustian label that his publisher had attached to the novel, Mr. Brodkey said; "Proust was more in the way than a mentor, but he's the greatest novelist. What he hopes he has written is a "genuinely American Middle Western book."

Books of The Times

When he was young, he re-called, life appeared to him to be on one side and books on the other. All the answers seemed to him to be io the books.

"The gap between the two. was too great for me to be happy," he said. "Human responses were not like those to books. My book is a debt tolife that never got written." I'm still a bick," said Mr. Brodkey, who moved to New York from the St. Louis area in 1954. "But if my atrength comes back, I'd like to do the two characters [with whom] the novel ends] in New

Mobil Oil is conidering an idea-to provide a prize (in the form of a grant, traveling fellowship or the like) to an author in a Middle East country chosen by an independent jury. A translatioo grant, also provided by Mobil, would al-low the author's work to appear in English, and the company would be willing to help an American publisher who showed interest in the writer but was hesitant about publishing a writer little known or completely unknown in the United States." The writers of the Middle East, a Mohil representative said, are influencing people in an important part of the world, "and we should know. more about them."

Weekend Gardenii

For years I shied away from the gladiolus. It always reminded me of hospitals. But the very factors that make the gladiolus such a popular component of getwell bouquets are also what makes it ideal in the garden. It is a dependable bloomer, produces large 'sbowy flower spikes that make excellent cut flowers, it is easy to grow, easy to propagate and relatively free of pests and disease. About all it lacks is fragrance and by growing Gladiolus tristis, a more diminutive graceful species than the common cutflower variety, you can have even that. Also, because the gladiolus is a tender plant from the tropics, it is set out in spring and early summer, after the glory of the tulips, deffedils and other bulbs that are set out in the fall has faded. Just wheo you begin to wish you'd planted more hulbs the previous year, you get a secood chance.

Gladiolus are corms, incidentally, not bulbs. A corm is the enlarged base of a plant stem. It is homogeneous in structure. A built, such as that of a tulip, is actually a modified underground bud containing the whole incip-ient plant io miniature. Cut one in balf, and you'll see.

Consider, before you pick the spot to plant gladioius, that they are fairly large. For cut flowers they are often grown in simple rows the way vegetables are. And if you have room for them in your vegetable garden, they'll certainly add some life and color to it.

Planted in flower borders, gladiolus are showlest in lumps or groups like oarcissus. Being upright and slen-der in habit, they should be planted five or more corms to a group, as otherwise they will lack the mass occded to produce a striking effect. Al-low 6 to 8 inches between REASONS OF STATE. By Alein Carpentier. Translated irom the Spanish by Frances Par-tridge. 311 pages. Alfred A. Knopf, $10. Alejo Carpentier is Cuban, a diplomat, a musicologist, former journalist and student of archilecture, one of those Latin-American polymaths who, as if traumalized in their formative years by Proust and Joyce, insist on writing novels in the grand. modernist Iradition-nothing omitted, everything ambigu-nus-at a time when the rest of the West has decided to feel bad on a smaller scale. What works very well, however, for Vargas Llosa or Garcia Marquez or Carlos Fuentes, can be weatisome wilb an Asturias or a Carpentier. Half of "Reasons of State" is, in fact, quite tedious. The time is early 20th century. The place is mostly Paris, where Mr. Carpentier cur-rently represents his country. An aging Latin-American dictator addicted to rum and European culture considers his career in heavy-breathing flashbacks. It is a compound of machismo rubbish and lists, pages and pages of lists of objects and sensalions.

They do not, for lhe most psrt, advance the cause of narrative or character. It is as though the novel were an adding machine without a total bar. A kind of prose stagflatioo results. The other half of "Reasons of State" consists of set pieces, many of them marvelous: a belrayal here, a massacre there, a cabinet meeting and a general strike. Mr. Carpeotier has a fine eye and a fine ear for rheto-ric, whether of French Academicians or -Latin-American politicians. guise. But that is not Mr. Garrison's game at all. Although his novel breathes conspiracy through every pore and there is a Presidential assassination in it, there are no direct parallels to the Kennedy murder. The hero, a tough former Green Baret named Colin McFerrio. is simply the obligatory thriller character caught up in a funhouse-mir-ror world of things that are not what they seem, in which friends become enemies and enemies become dcad, as fast as McFerrin can stomp, gar-rote, break necks or otherwise manage it. THE DEVIL, FINDS WORK, An Essay, 122 pages. Dial. $6.95.

O JAMES BALDWIN is still here, o JAMES BALDWIN is still here, still pursuing us, a ghost of 60's past. Even though he loog ago be-came unfashionahle, long ago wore out his welcome even in the black revolution (because he dared to believe that whites and blacks could love each other despite everything), he goes on jumping up and down and pointing like the man in the old Phildelphia Inquirer ads. Now, in his latest work of nonfiction, The Devil Finds Work," he is here-to tell us of his experiences at the movies from the time as a child when he discovered with gratitude that Bette Davis had "pop eyes" like his, to the time when as an adult he was Jerry Saula terrified by the banality of the the James Baldwin evil represented by the devil in The Exorcist." And he is pursuing us, predictably enough, with the conclusion that Hollywood is a machine designed to perpetuate certain racist notions (though this is putting it a little more bluntly and a little less constructively than Mr. Baldwin actually does).

Now, one can easily smother "The Devil Finds Work" with an avalanche of quibbles, not least among them that the news that Hollywood reflects American racial biases is not especially astonishing. One can fault Mr. Baldwin for his mannered and elliptical prose style, which leads him to overelaborate certain rather obvious points. (It takes him several paragraphs to explain that the black men played hy Sidney Poitier in "In the Heat of the Night" and "Goess Who's Coming to Din-ner?" had to be supermen, beoce virtual. freaks, in order to be treated by whites as equals.) Moreover, he makes pondcrous what any child could probably tell us: "This is, perhaps, a very subtle argument, but black men do not have the same reason to hate white men as white men have to bate blacks."

One can accuse Mr. Baldwin of oversim-plifying history. While warming up to dis-sect a McCarthy era film called 'My Son, John'' (with Helen Hayes, Van Heflin, Robert Walker and Dean Jagger), Mr. Baldwin refers sardonically to the "miserable, incontestably inferior, rice-eating gooks [wbo] refused to come to heel" in Korea, * as if the Uoited States's involvement there had simply been an exercise in repressive bigotry. It may very well have been that, but it was also many other complex things.

THE REW IURA LINES, FAURI, JUND 1, 1990

تعكذا من المذعب

Even T. E. Lawrence's campaigns in Arahia can be reduced to a white conspiracy agaiost blacks, Mr. Baldwin tries to persuade us in his discussion of David Lean's "Lawreoce of Arabia". ("It would appear that [the English] people need endless corroboration of their worth," observes Mr. Baldwin in an aside that will leave historlans hreathless, "and the tragedy of their history has been their compulsioo to make the world their mirror, and this to a degree not to be equaled in the history of any other people- and with a success, if that is the word, not to be equaled in the history of any other people.") Finally, one might argue that the American film industry has not been so much conspiratorial on the subject of blacks as shallow and incompetent on the subjact of everything. Mr. Baldwin may argue otherwise, using as evidence his personal ex-perience of trying to write an honest screenplay for "The Autobiography of Mal--colm X." Still, while he may be quite accurate in his cootection, that films such as "The Defiant Ones" and "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner?" are had because they distort the reality of black-white relations, I myself found both films more memorable for having been just plain bad.

Thus, one can pick away at Mr. Baidwin's essay almost endlessly. But is there any important point to be made by such an exercise? Not really. Everyooe has heard the arguments before. In this particular case it seems more worthwhile to ignore the two-thirds of Mr. Baldwin's book that is wrongheaded and to attend to the onethird that is right. And what is right about "The Devil Finds Work" can't be described detail heyond saylog that it is James Baldwin testifying hooestly to his own experience at the movies. It is his experience, and as such it either makes ussee a point of view we are unlikely to have seen before (if we happen to be white). or confirms a way of looking at things for which we are unlikely to have gotten public affirmation (if we happen to be black).

Besides, I can't help feeling it is only fair now to attend to what, Mr. Baldwin is saying. There used to be a time when we would haog on every breath he expired -s time when perhaps we overrated him. Then, probably out of embarrassment at our overenthusiasm, we started ignoring him completely-io short, underrated him. Now, if for no other reason thao balance, maybe it's time simply to rate him accurately. Not that it will matter much to him whether we do or not Whatever the consequences, he will keep on testifying, "keep on keeping on," as the expression goes. And this, too, is a reason for paying him respect.

Purchase To Hold Rustic Fair

Purchase, N.Y., an af-fluent Westchester communi-ty that has been fighting a running baitle with urbaniza-tion, will iovoke the memory of a more rustic past tomorrow when it holds its annual country fair, a 30-year tradi-tion. Fair time is from 11 A.M. to 5 P.M.

The fairgrounds, located on the Manhattanville College campus, will be studded with the usual array of rides, raffles, craft exhibits, a bluegrass country band, a per-forming chimpanzee named Mr. Jiggs and, a performing karate expert named Master Kang.

But what adds special zest to the Purchase County Fair for browsers, collectors and buyers with a sharp eye is the fair's white elephant sale which invariably includes at least a few castoffs from the community's large estates and homes that are in the $100,000 to $350,000 bracket.

This year, for instance, the sale will include a set of six high-backed solid oak chairs from the University of Louisville that ooce may have graced a very august faculty room and now might be adapted to a very large dining room.

Lois Perez, one of the volunteers at the fair said: "Sometimes they come in with fabulous stuff, like old quilts. You never know what you're going to get." One thing you can get this year is an enormous black imita-tion leather booth donated by a local bar. You can also walk off with aoything from a playpen to assorted bric-abrac at the sale, which will be held in the campus's Ken-nedy Building. Booths in this building will also offer an array of books, records, clothing, toys and jewelry. For those interested in more immediate gratification,

The harmonica is a versatile instrument that can be used for more than the best of Stephen Foster, Larry Adier, who made this point long ago, will make it again today in a concert sponsored by the Turtle Bay Music School of New York City. Mr. Adler will be the guest star of the perfor-mance at 4 P.M. at the Great Half, Marymount Manhattan College, 221 East 71st Street. He will share top billing with Cham-Ber Huang, a classical harmonica virtuoso whn beads the school's harmonica department and also designed a new Hohner barmonica to be used on the program. The two artists will be backed by a harmonica cadre of 25 students and Hohner em-, ployees. Admission is free (first-come, first-served), but the school would appreciate a $3 donation for its scholarship fund at the door.

THE JEWISH EAST SIDE

The Educational Alliance dates back to the early years of immigration and a Lower East Side that used to be Jewish but is now more black and Chinese and Spanish-speaking, and yet is still served by the Alliance. Today, though, the Alliance, 197 East Broadway (GR 5-6200), and two dozen other

There will be all kinds of kites: box, delta, parafoil, dragon (45-footers), Indian Fighter and so on. Sponsored by Go Fly a Kite, the store at 1434 Third Avenue, and the city's Parks, Cultural Affairs and Recreation Department. The first 250 kits fliers younger than 12 show-ing up will get free kites. Prizes for highest flier, smallest flier, most beautiful kite, most original kite and most kites on one string. Demonstrations, a place to get your kite repaired and a stand to sell kites. There should only be a stiff breeze. Information: 988-8885.

BICYCLES ON BROADWAY

There has been a hicycle surge in. the reginn, and Transportation Alternatives is trying to make the point that cycling beats motoring, if not in time (although maybe in that, too), at least in terms of health and nonpollution. Today, at noon, the organization is planning a hig wheel, led by such big wheels as Senator Jacob K. Javits and Dustin Holiman, from Co-Javifs and Dustin Holiman, from Co-lumbus Circle, at noon, down Broad-way in the Battery, where there will be a rally, including performances by avant-garde musicians (playing bi-cycles, yet, including spokes and frames), folk singers, unicyclists and even talkers. All free, Bicyclists from other boroughs and uptown Manhattan will ment in their boroughs earlier to will meet in their boroughs earlier to join the main procession (check out meeting points by calling 425-3025). appointment of Herbert Solomon as presideot of Obrbach's Inc. He succeeds Howard P. Goldberg, who resigned in March in a policy dispute with the owners. Mr. Solomon, a senior vice president of Abraham & Straus, will be Ohrbach's fourth president in seven years.

In another recent change, Saks Fifth Avenue appointed Robert J. Suslow as its third president in three and a half years. In all, nine of the city's 12 largest retail companies have changed either their chair-man or president—or both The nine eiter! man or president-or both. The nine retailers are Macy's, Gimbels, Abraham & Straus, Bergdorf Goodman, Seks Fifth Avenue, Bonwit Teller, Ohrbach's, B. Aliman and Lord & Taylor.

This wave of top management changes in the New York retailing field has raised questions in many corporate suites. Why unusually large number of changes in one field and in one geographical area? Is the volatile retail business more hazardous for executives than other fields? And why the unusually large compensation offers to lure new talent?

"The difficulties of the national economy and of New York in particular bava led to some of the top executive changes in stores," observed Herbert T. Mines, president of Business Careers Inc., a man-agement recruiter specializing in retailing. "And when things turn tough in the econ-omy, it is natural to question whether those at the top are right for the job." But Mr. Mines said that some of the

Management S.E.C. Crackdown a Boon for Insurers

By RICHARD PHALON

One of the big beneficiaries of the Securities and Exchange Commission's recent crackdown on kickbacks, bribes and illegal campaign contributions has been the insurance industry.

Alarmed by a flurry of stockholder suits in the wake of the S.E.C. contentions-and tighter court interpretations of insiders' fiduciary responsibilities generally -- more and more corporations are seeking the shelter of directors and officers liability insurance....

The motivation is as high as the potential exposure. Legal fees alone in the successful defense of a stockholder suit average close to $100,000 and in some cases have run as high of $600,000.

Damage awards are even more painful for management to contemplate. One of the most dramatic examples to date is the $30-million settlement that resulted from a stockholders suit against Mattel Inc.

The Mattel award, only partly covered by insurance, is one of many pointing to a quantum jump in a highly litigious atmosphere that began to expand in the late 1960's.

One of the crucial elements in that expansion was a suit in which some officers and directors of Texasguif Inc. were found guilty of having illegally bought the comnany's stock on inside information before he discovery of a rich mining strike in Ontario was made public.

The case put new teeth in the disclosure requirements of the securities laws and gave stockholders considerably more leverage in bringing sails against officers and directors.

> Many corporations conteod that the Texasguif case-compounded by the regulatory hazards of new legislation in the fields of civil rights, product liability, occupational safety and peosion fund management - has made it more difficult to recruit competent outside directors .--

The argument is that many able executives no longer think that a directorship, no matter how prestigions, is really worth the potentially high personal financial דופנה ומיסוינה

As Prof. Joseph Bishop of the Yale Law, School has put it, "the Damocles sword of personal liability is as much a part of the . furniture of the execclive suite as the Bigalow on the floor."

The managements of many organizations -publicly held corporations and nooprofit institutions alike-agree that directors and officers liability coverage has become one of the insurance industry's holtest selling ITERUS.

For example, the Conference Board, a nonprofit business research group, recently queried 763 companies and found that 77 percent of them carried D. & O. Insurance, as the coverage is known in the trade. In-1972 the comparable figure was 62 to be picking up now, however, along with an improvement in incoming orders. On Monday, the National Machine Tool Builders' Association reported that orders during April amounted to nearly $149 million, or 55 percent above the total for the comparable month io 1975.

. Producers of machine tools have not exactly been dom-inating the list of new yearly highs on the New York Stock Exchange of late. But two stocks in this field did move to 1976 highs on Tuesday.

Sheres of Cincinnati Mila-cron, the largest demestic menufacturer of machine tools used in mass produc-tion industries, traded above 33 on Tuesdsy-a vast improvement over its late 1974 low of 1314. In 1987, the stock changed hands at prices as high as 67.

Also reeching e yearly high on Tuesday was the Ex-Cell-O Corporation, a leading producer of mechine tools. It moved above 21, a price thet is more than double its 1974 low at 914. The industry, which is bighly competitive, also ass other companies as Brown & Sharpe, Acme-Cleveland, Giddings & Lewis and. Mooarch Machine Tool.

Profit prospects for this year vary from company to company, but at least one producer-Warner & Swasey -has said it expects increased sales and larger profit margins in 1976. Warner & Swazy, the second largest producer of ma-chine tools in this country, showed a loss for the final quarter of 1975 and wound up with earnings of $1.72 a share for all of last yeer. Some machine tool producers, in an attempt to escape the essentially cyclical nature of their industry, have sought to diversify by Producers of machine tools acquiring capital goods companles with a different business cycle.

In a geoeral sense, as the current economic recovery gathers momentum orders and backlogs-and, ultimately, tha sbipments thet acjually generate revenueswill improve for producers of machine tools.

However, serious underlying problems remain to confront the industry.

"Clouding the prospects for the machine tool industry is the declining portion of spending for machine tools as overall capital expenditures for durable goods industries continue io a longterm uptrend." notes Staodard & Poor's Corporation. "In fact, machine tool purchases have not kept pace with inflation since the mid-1950's. In 1956, for example, some 27 percent of machinery and equipment investment went for machine tools; by 1973, machine tool expenditures dropped to 13 percent."

• Some improvement took place in the next two years, the investment advisory service noted, "but whether this signals a turnaround remains to be seen."

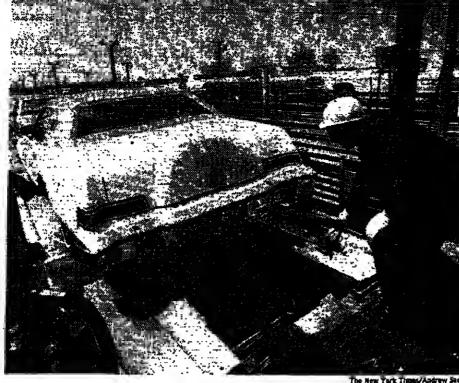

Meanwhile, s lot of money that would have been spent years ago for machine tools has gone instead more recently into pollution-control and safety equipment re-quired by various statutes.

Standard & Poor's com-ments that "current high msrket prices for the machine tool group indicate that in-vestors are already looking ahead to the improved pros-pects for 1977."

As for current investment suggestions, however, the advisory service takes the view that market potentials appear to be more promising in other machinery groups. Included among its seven favored mechinery issues are Briggs & Stratton, Caterpillar Tractor, Cooper Industries, Deere & Company, Joy Manufacturing, Massey-Ferguson and Rexnord loc. These companies manufacture such varied products as

Bank in Houston Ordered Closed

AUSTIN, Tex., June 3 (UPI)-The Northeast Bank of Houston was ordered closed today because of heavy withdrawals of deposits and problems with the bank's assets. The bank is the second in Houston ordered closed this year. The State Banking Commissioner, Robert E. Stewart, said efforts to solve the bank'a asset problems, which in-volved other real estate acquired through foreclosure on loans, had been unsuccessful and the sudden withdrawal of denosity made incomments of the bank incomments. deposits made insolvency of the bank imminent.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was named receiver for the bank, and Mr. Stewart said the F.D.L.C. would begin paying off insured deposits as soon as possible.

House Opposes Cotton Promotion

WASHINGTON, June 3 (UPI) — The House voted to-day to get the Government out of subsidiziog the promo-tion of cotton. By a 370-to-6 vote, the House approved amendments to the 1966 Cottoo Research and Promotion Act. The bill, which goes to the Senate, would end the contribution of taxpayers' money for the efforts of Cotton Int., a promotion and research group whose goal is to get Americans to use more cottoo fabrics.

The promotion act established an assessment of $1 a bale of cottoo produced, to pay for the promotion efforts. That amount was supplemented in the past with Federal help, up to $10 million in some years, but about $3 million in recent years.

West German Unemployment Falls

NUREMBERG, West Germany, Juna 3 (UPI)—Unem-ployment in West Germany dropped below one million in May for the first time in 16 months, the Federal Labor Office announced today. The office said the number of persons out of work fell in May by 140,200 to 953,500. This corresponds to a drop in the rate of unemployment from 4.8 percent in April to 4.2 percent. "The improvement is spread out more or less over the whole of the economy," Losef Stingt head of the Labor Office said Josef Stingl, head of the Labor Office, said.

As another indication of the turnaround in the labor market, Mr. Stingi said the number of persons employed only on a temporary basis was lower in mid-May than in mid-April.

Mr. Stingl said temporary employment fell by 105,300 to 250,000, a drop of 29.6 percent from mid-April. He said there were 22,400 more job vacancies at the end of May than at the end of April. This represented an increase of 8.9 percent over April. "This shows the readiness of businesses to hire more people," Mr. Stingl said.

Europe Plans Higher Steel Output

BRUSSELS, June 3 (Reuters)-The Common Market Commission is proposing a sharp increase in raw steel output in the third quarter of 1976, to 35 million tons from the 27.4 million produced in the 1975 period. Rowever, the 1975 quarter occurred during a year of recession in Europe, and the new target figure was still below the 38 million tons produced in the 1974 period.

Legal Defense Costs In Directors and Officers Liability Suits

A survey last year of 1,720 companies showed that 65 percent had purchased directors and officers liability insurance. Most of this coverage comes in two parts — one indemnifying the company for any payments if has to make to officers and directors as companied on for legal expenses and judgments, and the other indem-nifying directors and officers directly in situations in which the company is not permitted to help them. Of a lotal of 225 claims reported in the survey, legal costs were reported in connection with 143 of those claims.

Other studies by the Wyatt Company, an actuarial and employee benefit consulting firm, point in the same direction.

Wyatt last year surveyed 1,720 companies and found that 65 percent had hought D. & O. coverage. That compared with 58 percent of the 1,321 companies Wyatt queried the year before.

Almost all such coverage comes in two parts-one indemnifying the company for any payments it has to make to officers and directors as compansation for legal expenses and judgments, and the other indemnifying directors and officers directly in situations io which the company is not permitted to help them

Those situations vary with state law. In general the only kind of reimbursement officers and directors can expect io lawsuits brought on behalf of a corporation is the payment of legal expenses. The latitude is greater in cases brought personally on behalf of a group of stockholders. Because stockholders have become more restive, parti-cularly over disclosure problems caused by the wave of mergers and acquisitions that bas swept American industry in the last five years or so, D. & O. coverage is one of the most expensive forms of Depending on the risk variables involved and how the actuaries weigh them, a corporation with more than $2 billion in assets might pay anywhere from $19,000 to $75,000 a year for $10 mil-

575,000 a year for $10 mil-lion of D. & O. coverage. The average premum, according to the Wyatt Company is around $43,000. For the same amount of protection, a smaller compact ny—$100 million to $250 mil-lion in assets—might pay be-tween $4,200 and $70,000 a year. The average is about year. The average is about $14,000.

Rates have heen rising lately, apparently because underwriters losses have been increasing. A lot of the profit has gone out of the business, covarage has be-come harder to get and the come harder to get and the industry, says Warren Brock-meyer of the Wyatt Compa-ny, is bracing itself for a oew round of losses growing out of the bribery and kickback actions brought by the S.E.C. Since most D. & O. policies do not cover "illegal acts," the insiders at come controla-the insiders at some corporations cited in the S.E.C. cases may be in for a very rough time.

The hig risks are corporate, mainly because the securities laws give stockholders so much room, for maneuver. Officers of such ocoprofit institutions as hospitals have their worries, too, but the Wyatt sample suggests that the incidence of suits against them is far lower than in profit-making executive suites, where the securities laws loom as a major fact of busioess life.

America. A statistical compilation of the answers of those interviewed in the survey showed that, of all patterns purchased by brand, more Simplicity patterns were purchased in the preceding six months than all other brands combined.

Respondents in this survey were also asked to rate which of the four major pattern brands was "best" on a variety of pattern characteristics such as the ease of following pattern instructions, the selection of fashions which are easy to sew, etc. Among those who specified a brand choice, Simplicity was rated "best" on all positive attributes covered in the survey.

And, in an evaluation of monthly counter catalogs, the survey showed Simplicity's Catalog to be the first looked at by most of those interviewed when the catalogs of all major pattern companies were available at the counter.

Dresdner Bank, your international partner reports on 1975 Consolidated Balance Sheet as of

• 22 per cent growth in group business volume • extraordinary international expansion

The extension of Dresdner Bank in the past few years with new branches, offices and affiliations throughout the world resulted in a considerable increase in business.

Dresdner Bank expanded its international activities despite shrinking world trade. The outstanding performance of Dresdner Bank's subsidiaries made a major contribution to the bank's business development.

The Compagnie Luxembourgeoise de Banque SA (CLB) with an increased activity of 50 per cent - principally in international credit and monetary transactions - deserves special mention. Deutsch-Südamerikanische Bank (DSB), specializing in financing trade with Latin America, increased its business volume to over 3 billion DM.

Cooperation with our partner banks in the Associated Banks of Europe Corporation SA (ABECOR) was steadily intensified. ABECOR with a total of 400 billion DM bank assets is the largest international group of this kind.

With a background of 100 years of experience in international banking Dresdner Bank is active all over the world in more than 50 countries.

Branches in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, London, Singapore, Tokyo, Panama (DSB).

Representative offices in Asunción, Beirut, Bogota, Buenos Aires, Cairo, Caracas, Istanbul, Johannesburg, La Paz, Lima, Madrid, Mexico. Montevideo, Moscow, Panama, Paris, Quito, Rio de Janeiro, Santiago de Chile, São Paulo, Sydney, Tehran.

Call on us at Dresdner Bank. You'll find the international banking partner your business needs.

And some, like Westinghouse, according to industry sources, needed the money. Westinghouse has taken large losses in Europe trying to break into the market for elevators in apartment and office buildings, the sources pointed out. And so, they ad-ded, it was not unfavorably disposed, when the French exerted pressure, to nego-tiate the sale of a large block of stock in Framatome, the company that holds most of the technology for building the technology for building nuclear power stations. Io reducing its stock own-ership of Franatome from 45 to 15 percent, Westinghouse got some $25 million. The stock was sold to the French Atomic Energy Commission. prepared slides of stream water samples for microscopic examination. Moving from scope to acope, Dr. Patrick quickly identified the organisms when a student was stumped, reacting spiritedly ("Oh, there's a cladopbora!") when a speciea of her favorites, the diatoms, appeared. When magnified 440 times some kinds of diatoms resembled tiny boats that occasionally bumped into each other. Hinged Pillboxes

Diatoms range in length from one micron (one millionth of a meter) to a millimeter in length and are constructed somewhat like hinged pillboxes. Their shapes vary from thin rods to oval and pancakelike forms. The thousands of separate species are identified by differences in size, shape and the infi-nitely tiny radial lines, ridges, spines, hairs and nodules on the organisms. Dr. Patrick became interested in diatoms at a tender age. Her father, Frank Pat-rick, a lawyer by trade and a biologist by avocation, was an admirer of the tiny dia-toms, often called the "gems of the sea." As a treat for his daughter he would lift her onto his lap and let her peer through his microscope at the jewel-like forms. 'I was booked on diatoms at the age of seven," Dr. Patrick remarked.

Pursuing her interest into maturity, she got her mas-ters and Pb.D. degree in biology at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville. She began her affiliation with the Academy of Natural Sciences (which had the best collection of diatoms in America) in 1933 and in 1947 established and headed its limnology department.

Diatoms Are Mined

Historically, diatom re-mains bave been scientif-ically useful in charting the advance and retreat of glaciers and in tracing the prehistoric conditions of ancient lakes. In some sections of the world, huge deposits of the dead plants constitute diatomaceous earth and are mined commercially for use in thermal insulation and ultra-fine filters, as filter for paints and plastics and as a polishing agent for lenses and mirrors.

Live diatoms are, at the bottom of the food web, where they provide a vital part of the diet of tiny in-sects, mollusks and fish, providing essential vitamins and other nutrients.

In the eyes of Dr. Patrick and other limnologists, living distoms now have another important use for mankind, for they play a key role in belping to combat the earth's most serious pollation prob-lem — the contamination of its oceans, lakes and streams. A few decades ago it was generally known among aquatic scientists that a few kinds of diatoms seemed to favor certain types of water environment. With her extensive knowledge of the dif-ferent types of diatoms, Dr. Patrick set out in 1948 to correlate these relationships more precisely. In the company of a team of scientists, including a chemist, a bacteriologist and animal and plant experts, Dr. Patrick examioed a Pennsylvania stream, Conestoga Creek, for basic data on that diatom-environment relationship. The creek, a small river that winds through Lancaster County, was considered classic for their purpose it suffered from almost all known types of pollotion: sewage, fertilizer and pesti-cide runoff, metals from beavy industry and toxic tion. substances.

The scientists mapped the various sections of the river and its streambed according to the various types of pollution and then identified the types of plant and animal communities found in each of those sections. Dr. Pat-rick found that some diatom species thrived in water, that species thrived in water that was heavily polluted with organic contaminants such as human sewage, animal manure and crop fertilizers. Others flourished in pollu-tants of a different nature, such as mineral or chemical.

Index of Pollntion

By linking up the specific kinds of diatoms with the specific kind of water envi-ronment they thrived in or were absent from, it became possible to determine the type of pollution simply by examining and classifying the diatoms found in a stream.

Further refining this sys-tem, Dr. Patrick learned to examine a sample of stream water under the microscope and determine from the types and numbers of diatoms pres-ent not ooly what kind of pollution was present but how severe it was.

To make the collection of diatoms easier, Dr. Patrick invented the diatometer, a plastic box cootaining microscope slides that, strategically placed in a stream, capture the maximum number of the organisms. These devices are now in more than 70 siles in the United States as monitors of water pollu-

Won Richest Prize

Dr. Patrick's research on diatoms and streams has taken her to bodies of water in Canada, South America, Ireland, Mexico, Thailand, Austria and almost every part of the United States. Recently she has worked at the Stroud laboratory on the role of trace elements in the nourishment of diatoms.

For her work in these fields and ber published classification), Dr. Patrick last year was awarded the $150,000 John and Alice Ty-ler Ecology Award — the world's richest prize for sci-entific achievement turn.

Well, it's not hanging around the house all the tin

A partment people get out and go. They fly to the Caribbean to swim, or to Colorado to ski. Or drive themselves to fun anywhere. They don't have to spend money and time on lawnmowers or roofing or fixing the furnace. So they spend money and time on their good life—the Apartment Life. Two million two hundred thousand of these young, well-educated, affluent people spend money and time on something else, too: A magazine called Apartment Life. They do it because we give them ideas for living the way they want to live. And we know the way they live.
